India to continue dialogue with US on totalisation pact: Goyal

WASHINGTON, Oct 4: Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal has said that India will continue to engage with the US on the proposed social security or totalisation pact and it will take

THE HILLS TIMES

The proposed agreement seeks to do away with the requirement for an expatriate in either country to pay for social security schemes of the host country.

He said that the issue should have been resolved earlier when the dimensions were manageable.

"Now the dimension of the money collected by the (US) Treasury is so large that for any government, this will be a major decision," he told reporters here.

He added that when the Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led government came to power in 2014, the country held discussions with the US on the matter.

"The subject that has festered far too long and is not going to resolve over night...So we will continue to have the dialogue with the US...It's going to take time, we recognise that," Goval said.

He noted that the President Joe Biden administration has sent some "very" detailed questionnaire to India about the social security systems in India, which have all been responded to.

'The social security coverage details that we have shared with them, cover about 930 million people in India, more than the required threshold. So we are eligible for a

Classic Legends aim at higher sales in premium

motorcycles segment KOLKATA, Oct 4: Classic Legends Pvt Limited, which relaunched iconic brands like Jawa and Yezdi in the country almost four years back, is aiming at higher sales in the premium motorcycles segment, an official of the company said on Friday.

Starting operations in the country in 2019, the company first relaunched Jawa bikes, a Czech brand, followed by Yezdi, a brand which belonged to India. It also launched BSA motorcycles, a UK brand, in August this

"We aim to gain higher sales in the premium motorcycles segment. Presently we are selling 4,000 to 5,000 units per month among the brands which the company owns. We aim at selling one lakh units per annum in the next 12 months," said Anupam Thareja, one of the co-founders of Classic Legends.

Thareja, who owns 20 per cent stake in Classic Legends, said that Jawa and BSA bikes are also sold in the Czech Republic and the UK respectively, besides India. Classic Legends manufactures premium motorcycles in the 300 cc to 650 cc categories, he said. Thareja said that the premium motorcycle segment constitutes five per cent of the entire bike market in the country.

He said around 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the company's production will be exported from India. Thareja said that the eastern and northeastern states provide a lucrative market for dialogue and resolution of totalisation and bringing in Social Security Agreement," he said.

At the invitation of the United States Secretary of Commerce Gina Raimondo, Goyal visited America during September 30-October 3. Goyal co-chaired with Raimondo the India-USA CEO Forum on October 2 and the 6th India-USA Commercial Dialogue on October 3. The issue was raised in the meeting

Under the totalisation agreement, an expatriate in either country does not need to contribute to the social security schemes of the host country. It will benefit a number of Indians, particularly from the IT sector, who are working in America and paying for social security but are unable to get any benefit out of it.

It is a long-pending demand of India-Pakistan trade relations, he court as the trade was stopped by them and not India.

Talking about foreign companies choosing to shift base in India, the minister cited the example of iphone maker Apple and said that the company has exported smartphones worth about USD 5 billion during the first four or five months

"The expectation this year is to increase the exports to probably USD 15 or USD 16 billion. Just for Apple alone," he added.

He also said that the reason for certain companies shifting bases from China to South East Asian nations could be that after RCEP. Chinese firms invested in Asean region

"And India does not encourage Chinese investments in India, that could have been a reason," he said. On critical minerals, he said India is talking to the US to explore opportunities to work together in third countries.

"For example, whether we could look at the critical minerals in third countries to be jointly worked upon by the US and India or investments from third countries for joint projects between the US and India," he added. Critical minerals, such as cobalt, copper, lithium, nickel and rare earths, play a crucial role in the production of clean energy technologies, from wind turbine to electric cars. Such minerals are in demand for the production of batteries for electric cars. (PTI)

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: The National Stock Exchange (NSE), its former chief Vikram Limaye and eight others on Friday settled with markets regulator Sebi a case, pertaining to alleged failure to address the bourse's TAP (trading access point) system deficiencies, after paying ₹ 643 crore.

This will be one of the highest settlement amounts and will pave the way for NSE's much-awaited initial public offering (IPO), which was delayed following the co-location issue.

The matter was settled "without admitting or denying the findings of facts and conclusions of law, through a settlement order"

Apart from NSE and Limaye, those who settled the case are Umesh Jain G. M. Shenoy, Narayan Neelakantan, V R Narasimhan, Kamala K, Nilesh Tinaikar, R Nandakumar and Mayur Sindhwad.

TAP was introduced in 2008 to manage communication between trading members and NSE's trading system, but it had several issues, including security lapses, delays in improvements, and inadequate action on complaints. Despite introducing alternative systems. TAP continued to be used until 2019 for equities and 2020 for other segments.

In its settlement order, Sebi said that NSE, on behalf of itself and other applicants, has remitted the settlement amount of Rs 643 crore on September 25, the receipt of which is confirmed.

Accordingly, "the proceedings initiated against the applicants vide the SCN (show cause notice) dated February 28, 2023, are hereby disposed of," the regu-

Sebi conducted an investigation into the NSE's TAP system and network connectivity, focusing on potential bypasses by trading members, how a 2013 complaint was handled, and whether the bourse violated securities laws.

After the conclusion of the examination, Sebi issued a show cause notice in February 2023 to entities, including NSE, alleging violations such as failure to address TAP deficiencies, delayed responses, and non-compliance with cyber security regulations.

While the proceedings were pending, the entities filed settlement applications to resolve the case without admitting guilt. After meetings with Sebi's committees and revising settlement terms, a combined settlement of ₹ 643.05 crore was agreed upon, along with a requirement for some entities to perform pro bono community service for 14 days.

On September 25, 2024, NSE paid the settlement amount. With this payment and commitments fulfilled, the markets regulator closed the proceedings but retained the right to reopen the case if there are any violations of the settlement term. The settlement would pave the way for NSE's much-awaited initial public offering (IPO).

In August, sources stated that NSE had begun the process for its IPO and reapplied to the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) for a "no-objection' certificate (NOC) for the IPO.

After receiving the NOC from Sebi, the exchange will draft a prospectus and submit it to Sebi. Once the regulatory review is complete and approval is granted, the exchange will proceed with launching its IPO, they had stated.

NSE's listing has been delayed due to several factors, including investigations into the exchange's preferential treatment of certain entities.

Last month. Sebi dismissed regulatory violations charges against the NSE and its seven former employees, including Chitra Ramkrishna and Ravi Narain in nearly a decade-old co-location facility case citing absence of sufficient evidence.

The co-location facility allows stock brokers to place their servers at a stock exchange in consideration of a fee, giving them access to price data a fraction of a second before other participants. (PTI)

UP bioplastic policy gamechanger, to finalise ₹2000 cr PLA project post scheme fine print: BCML

KOLKATA, Oct 4: Integrated sugar producer Balrampur Chini Mills Limited (BCML) on Friday said the company will finalise its ₹ 2.000 crore investment in India's first industrial PLA (polylactic acid) bioplastic manufacturing plant once the policy fine print is released.

PLA offers a triple advantage: biobased production, biodegradability under industrial compost conditions, and chemical recyclability, making it a "game-changer" in sustainable material solutions.

As traditional plastic consumption continues to rise, threatening our environment, this forwardthinking policy couldn't have come at a better time, Executive Director of Balrampur Chini, Avantika Saraogi, told PTI in an interview. "We wholeheartedly commend the Uttar Pradesh government for pioneering India's first bioplastic policy, a game-changer in our fight against plastic pollution. We believe this strategic intervention will attract significant investments in the bioplastics sector and drive India towards a greener economy," Saraogi said. She noted that as their project was announced in February, they were able to provide inputs to the UP government regarding sustainable plastics. The new policy will not only positively impact the upcoming PLA project but also encourage other players to invest in sustainability in the state, supporting the government's goal of achieving net zero emissions by 2070. Asked how the policy will specifically impact the BCML PLA project financially, Saraogi "We will need some more time to make those calculations at least a few months—because we are still in the process of finalising the exact investment figures though broad capex is estimated at ₹ 2000 crore." The company is awaiting detailed rules and fine wider adoption, although the price gap is narrowing. Saraogi added that the UP's bio-plastic policy offers companies investing ₹ 1,000 crore or more a subsidy of up to 50 per cent of their capital investment for seven years, along with interest subvention for the same duration, with details on the level of interest subvention still awaited.

Other highlights of the policy include 100 per cent reimbursement of SGST for 10 years and duty-free electricity for 10 years. The policy also includes stamp duty exemption or remission for transactions made one year before or after the policy cutoff date, with overall benefits not exceeding 200 per cent of the investments made.

By linking agriculture to industry, the policy encourages the use of biomass, such as sugarcane, which is a key raw material for PLA bioplastics.

Officials said this approach supports the growth of agro-based economies while addressing the global demand for sustainable materials. It also provides opportunities beyond SMEs, including waste management service providers. municipalities, and recycling operators, to participate in the bioplastic supply chain. (PTI)

Rajnath pitches for greater in 2023-24. In July, Singh said, "India has registered the highest ever growth in the value of defence production in 2023-24. The value of production has reached $\stackrel{?}{}$ 1,26,887 crore in 2023-24 which is 16.8 per cent higher than the value of production of the previous financial year."

At the SIDM event, he said, "If we look closely, then we realise that the majority share is being generated by PSUs, DPSUs, with a share of Rs 1 lakh crore, while private sector share is only about Rs 27,000 crore.

There is a "big scope" to increase the participation of private industry in total defence production, he said. "We wish to see it at least 50 per cent of the total defence production. It should be our target, and the government stands by you in making efforts towards achieving this," Singh added. In his address, he also alluded to the prolonged Russia-Ukraine war. He said some experts have said that the form of warfare was not the same as it was before, rather it has changed. But, this war shows that the importance of a defence industrial base has not lessened from what it was before, rather in the coming times, there will be a need to expand it, he said. "So, the government is ready to make all efforts," the defence minister said. Singh also spoke of the five positive indigenisation lists (PILs), under which 509 pieces of equipment have been identified whose production will be done in India. "This list of 509 items is not static, it is a dynamic list which should keep reducing with time. We should assess on what items in the first list, we have achieved 'atmanirbharta.' Our efforts should be to achieve full self-reliance on these items over time, and shorten the list," he said.

"Besides, for the defence PSUs also we released five positive indigenisation lists, under which over 5,000 such equipment have been identified which will be built in India by Indian hands," the minister said. This list is definitely an "aspirational benchmark" for the private sector, he said.

"This list, the work and its progress should be seen not only by the government, but you should also take a step in this direction. See for yourself, if the domestic manufacturing industry can work on these PILs. And, if any issues are there they they should be resolved," Singh added.

It's not about increasing the number in the PILs, if it's not feasible then remove it. This list may have been brought to make the defence sector 'atmanirbhar,' but ultimately this list is dedicated to you, and you have to do by the use of guns. It is not the right method as it could escalate the matter, Rijiju said. When asked about Gandhi's statement that BJP and RSS were destroying the Constitution and that he was opening "Mohabbat ki dukan," he said, "A person like Rahul Gandhi becoming the leader of the opposition is a curse for our country. A person who has never read the Constitution and does not understand the spirit of the Constitution, whose entire family insulted Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar, is talking about the Constitution as an insult itself." "I feel that such a person even touching the Constitution is not appropriate. It is bad luck that such a person has become the leader of the opposition and I have to deal with him...People from my own SC/ST and Buddhist community welcome and praise Rahul Gandhi. Shame on those who do this. You should feel ashamed for doing this and this should not happen," he said.

Gandhi became the leader of the opposition after the Lok Sabha elections held earlier this year. Before addressing the press conference, Rijiju visited Deekshabhoomi, where Dr B R Ambedkar embraced Buddhism. He said 'Sanvidhan Bhavan' will be constructed in every district of Maharashtra which will have libraries, by national poet Ramdhari Singh Dinkar to emphasise his point. He highlighted four aspects related to the defence and military scenario in the context of India -- future, empowerment, catalysing exports, and ingenious innovations. He recalled the first-ever future warfare course that took place last month in New Delhi.

"We are not trying to replicate how advanced militaries are going to fight their wars, actually we are trying to find how we are going to fight our wars. Because our environment, our threats, our geopolitical situation, our geography, everything is unique to us. And, we are going to find unique solutions, which suit us," the CDS added. Later, the defence minister addressed the gathering at the SIDM event. Singh also presented the SIDM Champion Awards which recognises outstanding achievements in defence manufacturing. He termed the awards as a reflection of the dedication and excellence of Indian manufacturers, which will serve as a benchmark for best practices in the sector. (PTI)

April 2015 and 59 candidates were declared qualified for the interview which was held in September 2015 with 14 candidates selected as District Malaria Officer and the selection process was concluded by 2016. Meanwhile, a woman candidate who had qualified for the interview but was not finally selected filed a writ petition alleging that corrupt practices were adopted with a member of the interview board calling her and asking for money for her selection but she had refused.

The judges observed that they had carefully scrutinised the photocopies of the evaluation sheets of the 56 candidates and found that the marks of 28 of them had been altered with the original marks changed and no justification was given for the same. 'After taking into consideration the irregularities, which are of serious nature, the selection process cannot be termed as fair and transparent', the judges stated. The Additional Advocate General submitted before the court that the state government is not in favour of protecting the selection process and has left the matter to the The court ruled that it is not advisable to allow APSC to conduct a fresh exercise of selection by taking into consideration the original marks obtained by the candidates who had appeared in the interview. The judges also noted that though the selection process was concluded in 2016 but till date, no appointment has been provided to the selected candidates due to the pending writ petition. 'We deem it appropriate to set aside the entire selection process for the posts of District Malaria Officer', the judges noted. The court further directed APSC to conduct a fresh selection process for the posts of District Malaria Officer on the available vacancies in accordance with law as expeditiously as possible. (PTI) consumption behaviour fully." "There will be organic growth in consumption as they become full-fledged consumers. Simultaneously, a rising middle class will pave the way for strong consumption, inflow of foreign investment and a vibrant marketplace," Sitharaman added.

Besides, she said, India's innovation ability will mature and improve over the coming decades. With regard to fiscal prudence, Sitharaman said, the government continues to uphold its commitment to reducing the fiscal deficit. "Aided by buoyant revenue generation, restrained revenue expenditure growth and healthy economic activity, the fiscal deficit is estimated to decline further from 5.6 per cent of GDP in FY24 (provisional actuals) to 4.9 per cent in FY25. The commitment to fiscal discipline will not only help keep bond yields in check but will translate to lower economy-wide borrowing costs," she said. Talking about the capex plan of the government, the finance minister said, the government has budgeted to increase its infrastructure investment by 17.1 per cent to ₹ 11.1 lakh crore in 2024-25. This amounts to 3.4 per cent of GDP in FY25. (PTI) was a moment of pride for the people of the state. "Assamese is our mother tongue and as children of this land, we are very proud that our spoken tongue has been declared a classical language. This has been possible for the great works of the state's eminent litterateurs for several centuries," he said. Assam Jatiya Parishad president Lurinjyoti Gogoi and general secretary Jagadish Bhuyan also welcomed the declaration of Assamese as a classical language.

"This is very good news for the people of Assam. This will help in further development and research of Assamese," they said in a statement. "We are very grateful to the Asam Sahitya Sabha and others who have worked relentlessly to ensure that all the criteria are met for Assamese to be declared as a classical language,"

Former Asam Sahitya Sabha president Kuladhar Saikia, during whose tenure the process for recognition of Assamese as a classical language was initiated in 2021, said that the language met all the criteria as is evident from stone inscriptions, copper plates, sculptures and folk music.

He said that a memorandum was prepared in 2021 and submitted both to the centre and the Sahitya Akademi. Saikia's term as the Asam Sahitya Sabha president had ended in 2022 but as the head of the committee that prepared the memorandum, he was asked by the present office bearers to take the matter forward.

Therefore, I wrote a letter to the Prime Minister in this regard on July 9 this year and Assamese getting the classical status will bestow on it a distinct place in the world," he added. Granting of classical status will benefit the setting up of university chairs and promotion centres, employment in academics, research, archiving, and digitization of ancient texts, and provide opportunities in translation, publishing and digital media for preserving classical heritage. QUOTE OF THE DAY

Fortune befriends the bold. -Emily Dickinson

Future of B'desh after Hasina

wo months have passed since Sheikh Hasina Wazed was ousted from power on August 5, following a student-led mass uprising under the Anti-Discrimination Front, popularly known as the Anti-Quota Movement. On August 8, Nobel Laureate Dr Muhammad Yunus was sworn in as the interim government's chief adviser, supported by a team of over a dozen advisers. Tasked with ensuring stability, security, and law and order, this interim administration is guiding Bangladesh toward fresh elections in a turbulent political environment. Dr Yunus has quickly gained public confidence, reflected in recent studies that suggest a growing section of the population supports extending the interim government's tenure. Many believe that law and order must be restored and the economy stabilised before political parties can take the helm again. In a short time, Yunus has made notable achievements, particularly during his visit to the United Nations General Assembly in New York from September 24 to 27. This visit, described by the local media as his "Mandela moment," included crucial meetings with global leaders, such as US President Joe Biden, and resulted in promises of economic aid for Bangladesh. Domestically, the interim government has made headway with its reform agenda. Six commissions have been established, with particular focus on electoral reform, administration, and the judiciary. On October 5, Dr Yunus is set to meet representatives of political parties, excluding the Awami League, to discuss law and order improvements. Additionally, he has sought international assistance for police reforms, engaging Italian Prime Minister Grigori Meloni, which led to further discussions between Italian diplomats and Bangladeshi of-

A delicate diplomatic balance with India is being maintained. Dr Yunus previously cautioned the Indian government that political remarks made by Sheikh Hasina from Indian soil could damage bilateral ties. India responded by advising Hasina to remain quiet. Consequently, Dr Yunus has opted not to pursue Hasina's extradition aggressively, a move designed to avoid embarrassing India while effectively marginalizing the Awami League. Most of its leaders are now either in hiding or have been arrested, facing a multitude of charges, including murder. In the political vacuum left by the Awami League, the Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) led by Begum Khaleda Zia is emerging as the primary contender for power. The BNP, which has previously governed twice, maintains strong organisational and financial capabilities, with cordial relations with both the US and China. Despite its complex relationship with Dr Yunus, the BNP has yet to significantly influence the interim government. The military, another key player, has signalled its willingness to extend the interim government's tenure beyond the previously mentioned 12-18 months, delaying elections- a move the BNP does not

For now, Dr Yunus enjoys substantial support both domestically and internationally. His administration appears to be moving deliberately, not rushing toward elections but focusing on long-term stability. India must now recalibrate its strategy toward Bangladesh, having inadvertently fuelled anti-India sentiment in recent years. Statements by Indian leaders, including home minister Amit Shah's remarks on Bangladeshi infiltrators, have caused significant damage. Rebuilding relations will take time, and it is essential for New Delhi to allow its foreign office the autonomy to devise an innovative outreach strategy to mend ties with one of its once-closest neighbours.

Violence in Manipur: Causes, impact and solutions

By: Satyabrat Borah

anipur has been fighting with violent unrest for Lover a year. The conflict primarily involves ethnic tensions between the Meitei, the dominant group in the valley and the Kuki-Zo tribes residing in the hilly regions. This violence has various causes. It created significant impacts on the socio-political fabric of the state and potential ways for solution that require both political and community level intervention.

The main reason of the violence is ethnic strife between the majority Meitei community, primarily Hindus concentrated in the valley, and the Kuki-Zo who predominantly inhabit the hilly areas. The Meitei have been demanding Scheduled Tribe (ST) status which is strongly opposed by the hill tribes because it could destroy their political and economic advantages. The hill people fear that granting ST status to the Meitei would enable them to acquire land in tribal areas which leads to further marginalization of the indigenous hill tribes.

The state government's initiative to clear forest encroachments and crack down on drug cultivation has created more tensions. Many Kuki groups have been accused of participating in illegal poppy cultivation which leads to evictions in protected areas like Churachandpur. These actions have been recognised by the Kuki community as an attack on their livelihood and cul-

The porous border with Myanmar has led to a significant influx of refugees particularly from the Kuki-Zomi ethnic groups, heightening fears of demographic shifts. The presence of refugees has worsened competition over land and resources, adding fuel to the already simmering conflict.

Historical divisions between the Meitei and the hill tribes have persisted since British colonial rule which adopted a "divide and rule" policy. The tribal areas, accounting for 90% of Manipur's land, have long felt neglected in terms of infrastructure and development. The perceived dominance of the Meitei in political and economic spheres has further deepened this resent-

The violence has led to significant loss of life including brutal killings, arson and targeted attacks. Many families, especially from the tribal communities have been displaced, seeking refuge in makeshift camps with little hope of returning to their homes in the near future. The unrest has destroyed the state's economy particularly in sectors like agriculture and trade and disturbed educational institutions. Schools and colleges have been shut down which leaves thousands of students without access to education. The violence has also destructed public property including schools and businesses. The violence has been marked by grave human rights abuses, including sexual violence, extrajudicial killings and the targeting of civilians. These incidents have left deep scars on the communities with little legal recourse or justice in sight. The courts have been criticized for their inaction regarding

The conflict has further polarized the already divided society, making reconciliation increasingly difficult. Ethnic segregation is becoming more entrenched, with calls from the Kuki-Zo community for a separate administration, a move strongly opposed by the Meitei.

A peaceful resolution to the conflict requires open dialogue between the warring communities with the state and central governments playing a mediating role. Both sides need to agree on a framework for power-sharing, land rights and governance to ensure that neither group feels marginal-

The central government needs to carefully evaluate the demand for ST status for the Meitei community and to ensure that it does not exacerbate the already volatile situation. Any decision on this must involve consultations with all stakeholders, including the tribal communities to find a fair and balanced solution.

The lack of accountability for violence, particularly in cases of human rights violations needs urgent attention. The judiciary must expedite hearings and ensure that those responsible for crimes are brought to justice. This will help rebuild trust in the state's institutions.

One of the underlying causes of the unrest is the perceived neglect of the hill districts. Investing in infrastructure, education and healthcare in these areas could help alleviate some of the economic grievances, reducing the sense of alienation among the tribal groups.

The violence in Manipur is a complex issue based on ethnic tensions, historical grievances and competition for resources. Addressing this conflict requires a multifaceted approach involving dialogue, legal reform and targeted development efforts. Only through sustained peace building efforts and inclusive governance can the state hope to emerge from this crisis.

The BJP's shift to solo strategy and Hindutva: Analyzing the party's long-term plans

Janata Party (BJP), under the leadership of Narendra Modi secured a clear majority in the Lok Sabha, it was a momentous occasion. This victory not only marked the party's unprecedented growth in Parliament but also fueled its ambitions to expand its presence in various state assemblies across the country. The BJP leadership believed that the party could now function independently, free from the need for alliances with regional or smaller parties. This optimism was highlighted in a meeting held in New Delhi in June 2014, where Prime Minister Modi urged newly elected BJP MPs to aim for "rajyon main shath pratishath BJP" (100% BJP, in power in states), signaling the party's intention to dominate not only at the national level but also in the states. This marked the beginning of a new era in BJP's strategy, with the party distancing itself from traditional allies such as

Akali Dal in Punjab. Fast forward nearly a decade and the political landscape has shifted once again. Despite its early ambitions of independence, the BJP has found itself relying on alliances, such as those with the Telugu Desam Party (TDP) and Janata Dal (United) (JD(U)). However, the core leadership of the BJP is rethinking its future trajectory. There is a renewed push to encourage party workers and supporters to prepare for a future where the BJP can once again fight elections solo,

Shiv Sena in Maharashtra and

'n 2014, when the Bharatiya with Hindutva as its primary

Union Home Minister Amit Shah, the BJP's second most influential leader after Prime Minister Modi, has been at the forefront of this renewed focus on Hindutva. During a visit to Mumbai, Shah addressed senior office-bearers and activists of the BJP, emphasizing the importance of staying committed to the party's core ideology of Hindutva. Shah's message was clear: the BJP must return to its original ideological roots and prepare for upcoming elections as a solo contender. This represents a shift in strategy, as the party distances itself from alliances and focuses on galvanizing its grassroots cadre with the message of Hin-

The focus on Hindutva comes at a time when the BJP is analyzing its losses in the recent elections in Maharashtra. BJP's most powerful leader in the state, Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, recently blamed the party's electoral setbacks in 17 or 18 Lok Sabha constituencies on what he described as "vote jihad." According to Fadnavis, the Opposition's narrative during the election campaign that the BJP intended to change the Constitution - resonated with a significant portion of the electorate, particularly the Muslim community, which shifted its support to the Congress party and Uddhav Thackeray's Shiv Sena. This shift in votes, described by Fadnavis as "vote jihad," has become a talking that both Shah and Fadnavis are using Hindutva to rally the party's

One of the factors driving the BJP's renewed emphasis on Hindutva in Maharashtra is the perceived communal polarization that the Opposition parties have successfully achieved in various parts of the state.

For instance, over the past few years, Maharashtra has witnessed massive agitations by Maratha activists demanding reservation in education and jobs. This agitation has caused a sharp reaction among other backward classes (OBCs), which form a significant portion of the electorate. In the 2019 elections, the BJP suffered losses in the Marathwada and Western Maharashtra regions, primarily due to the Maratha agitation.

To counter this, the BJP is now turning to a larger ideological issue

Hindutva which has been a cornerstone of its politics decades.

To energize its core voter base and cadres, the BJP is promoting leaders like Konkan MLA Nitesh Rane and Member of Parliament Anil Bonde, who are known for their hardline Hindutva stance. The party believes that by pushing a strong Hindutva agenda, it can polarize the Hindu vote, which constitutes approximately 85% of Maharashtra's population. By focusing on hardline Hindutva, the BJP hopes to overcome other political issues and consolidate its sup-

However, this focus on Hindutva is not the only element of the BJP's strategy in Maharashtra. The party is also working to reinvigorate its grassroots cadre by pitching the idea of going solo in the 2029 elections. Many BJP workers and activists, who were initially motivated by the party's 2014 slogan of "shath pratishath BJP," have grown disillusioned with the party's decision to form alliances, particularly with political adversaries like Ajit Pawar.

In recent Lok Sabha elections, there was significant resentment among BJP grassroots workers over the party's decision to share seats with the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP). In response, the party's leadership is attempting to assuage this discontent by publicly stating that the BJP will contest the independently.

This is part of a By: Dipak Kurmi broader effort to give the karyakartas (grassroots workers) hope for future opportunities and restore their enthusiasm. Interestingly, this messaging from the BJP leadership has not been entirely consistent. Just last week, during a visit to Nagpur, Amit Shah urged BJP office-bearers and leaders to "accept the alliance partners as our own." However, in his address in Mumbai a few days later, Shah indicated that the party would be prepared to fight the 2029 elections solo. This dual messaging reflects the party's attempt to balance its short-term need for alliances with its longterm vision of electoral independ-

The big question now is whether the BJP's strategy will succeed. Can the party successfully pursue a hardcore Hindutva agenda while simultaneously preparing to discard its alliance partners? How will these alliance partners react to the BJP's long-term plan of going solo? And will the BJP's grassroots cadre be persuaded by the promise of future opportunities if the party contests elections independently?

These are questions that only time can answer. However, what is clear is that the BJP is laying the groundwork for a significant shift in its political strategy. The party is banking on Hindutva to galvanize its voter base and aims to restore the faith of its grassroots workers by promising a future where the BJP can stand on its own, without the support of regional or smaller parties. As the political landscape in Maharashtra and across India continues to evolve, the BJP's long-term strategy will undoubtedly play a crucial role in shaping the party's future trajectory. Whether the BJP can achieve its goals of electoral independence and dominance through Hindutva remains to be seen, but the party's leadership is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to realize this vision. From clean India to empowered India: A decade of transformational change

Cleanliness is not just about removing dirt. It is about removing the mindset that permits it to thrive." These words, spoken by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, resonate deeply with the transformative journey that India embarked upon in 2014 through the Swachh Bharat Mission (SBM). This bold initiative, aimed at fostering cleanliness, health, and hygiene across the country, has indeed transcended its initial goals, shaping a new India where cleanliness is no longer a mere obligation but a collective consciousness. As we reflect upon a decade of progress, it becomes evident that the SBM has profoundly altered the nation's public health landscape, livelihood dynamics, and societal mindset, making it an emblem of holistic development.

In 2014, India took a collective pledge to end open defecation and promote sanitation through SBM. This monumental task was approached with clarity of vision, guided by the belief that a clean India would lead to a healthier and more prosperous society. The numbers testify to this resolve—over 110 million toilets were constructed in the first phase of the mission, providing much-needed sanitation infrastructure in both rural and urban areas. Yet, the success of SBM cannot simply be measured in the number of toilets built. As Prime Minister Modi emphasized, this campaign sought to change the behavior of millions, aiming for a permanent shift towards cleanliness as a way of life.

The health benefits derived from SBM have been profound. Studies, including one published in 'Nature', estimate that the program has prevented 60,000–70,000 infant deaths annually since its inception. By reducing the spread of waterborne diseases, improving sanitation infrastructure, and promoting personal hygiene, the mission has contributed to a significant drop in morbidity and mortality rates in both rural and urban areas. Furthermore, the World Health Organization projects that by 2025, an additional 677.3 million Indians will benefit from improved health and well-being, underscoring the long-term impact of this nationwide initia-

However, the benefits of SBM stretch far beyond health. This movement has sparked economic growth by creating vast employment opportunities, particularly in its early years. The construction of sanitation infrastructure alone employed 2.59 million full-time workers and provided indirect employment to 4.95 million more. More importantly, it empowered women, notably through the rise of 'Rani Mistries', female masons who became instrumental in building toilets under the program. This shift not only offered women a new source of income but also reshaped gender dynamics in many rural communities. Phase two of SBM marked a transition from merely constructing toilets to focusing on sustainable waste management. This shift has fueled the growth of India's waste management industry, generating jobs in waste collection, transportation, processing, and recycling. Women, once again, have played a pivotal role in this transformation. Through self-help groups (SHGs), women have led the charge in waste management initiatives, educating their communities about waste segregation and transforming waste into valuable products. One particularly inspiring initiative, the Light House Initiative (LHI), exemplifies this shift. Under LHI, women-led SHGs have turned multi-layered plastic waste into fashionable items such as tote bags and planters, simultaneously promoting sustainability and providing livelihoods for vulnerable communities.

These innovative solutions exemplify how the Swachh Bharat Mission is not merely about cleanliness; it is a powerful tool for community empowerment and economic growth. The efforts to mainstream marginalized waste workers through initiatives like the Plastic Circularity project demonstrate how SBM is contributing to India's broader goals of sustainable development. By providing workers with training, capacity building, and access to funding, these initiatives are helping integrate them into the formal waste value chain, thus providing them with new avenues for growth and financial stability.

The ripple effects of SBM are also visible in its alignment with international development goals. In the global context, SBM's goals dovetail with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) 6, particularly target 6.2, which calls for universal access to sanitation and hygiene. By working towards this target, India is not only improving the lives of its citizens but also contributing to the global effort to ensure clean water and sanitation for all by 2030.

As India commemorates the tenth anniversary of SBM on October 2, 2024, it is essential to recognize the profound cultural shift that this campaign has inspired. What began as a mission to eliminate open defecation and improve sanitation has evolved into a movement that has redefined public behavior. Cleanliness is now seen as a shared responsibility, a collective commitment that has united millions of Indians in their pursuit of a healthier and more dignified life. This participatory approach is exemplified in the annual cleanliness drives, where citizens from all walks of life, including notable figures, contribute their time and efforts to maintain cleanliness in their localities.

Moreover, the SBM has also had an undeniable impact on India's image as a tourist destination. Cleanliness is a crucial factor in attracting tourists, and by promoting hygiene and sanitation, India has taken significant steps toward becoming a more welcoming and appealing destination for international travelers. This focus on cleanliness, combined with initiatives aimed at enhancing green spaces through tree planting and waste elimination, has the potential to further elevate India's standing on the global stage.

Despite its many successes, challenges remain. In rural areas, for example, some individuals continue to resist using the toilets built under SBM, and the government has faced criticism for employing coercive measures to enforce toilet usage. Yet, these challenges only underscore the importance of sustained efforts to change long-entrenched behaviors. The > SBM's shift towards a focus on waste management and sustainability in Phase 2 is recognition that true change takes time and requires a long-term commitment to education and behavioral transformation.

EPIC AFFAIRS Looking ahead, the future of SBM lies in its ability to continue adapting to new challenges and opportunities. The program's success has laid the groundwork for further innovation in sanitation and waste management, and as the government continues to invest in these areas, the potential for job creation and economic growth remains vast. With the convergence of schemes like the National Skill Development Mission and the National Rural Livelihoods Mission, SBM is well-positioned to drive India's development agenda forward.

The Swachh Bharat Mission has not only transformed India's sanitation landscape but also become a powerful engine for societal and economic change. By focusing on longterm behavioral change and sustainable development, SBM has provided a blueprint for improving health, livelihoods, and environmental sustainability. As India celebrates a decade of SBM, the mission stands as a testament to the nation's commitment to cleanliness and its vision for a healthier, more prosperous future. The road ahead is filled with challenges, but with continued dedication and innovation, the dream of a Swachh Bharat remains within reach. (The author can be reached at shashankadasnov1@gmail.com or

Pakistan's ailing economy gets some relief after getting US$7 billion IMF facility

By: Tirthankar Mitra

t is no secret that Pakistan economy is in doldrums and International Monetary Fund (IMF) has approved $ 7 billion Extended Fund Facility (EFF) for the beleaguered country following a staff level meeting with Islamabad. A United Nations report stated that Pakistan's economy is to face global challenges this year, with a modest GDP growth expected.

The situation in Pakistan remains chaotic after 2024 elections. Economic data shows that the crisis will continue. Inflation stood at 29 per cent in January, according to Pakistan Bureau of Statistics. As the country's foreign currency reserves continues to fluctuate, it needs $ 30 billion in annual external debt obligations. The Pakistan government has predicted that inflation rate will remain between 12.5-11 per cent in June-July. Inflation rate of Pakistan was 9.8 per cent in August. The EFF is a 37-month long loan programme. It is the 25th such programme in Pakistan's history.

Under the current borrowing programme, the latest IMF facility is the sixth. The facts do not paint a rosy picture of Pakistan economy even as Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharief said "God willing, this will be Pakistan's last IMF programme".

What the prime minister chose to overlook was that poor governance and imprudent fiscal management have long plagued Pakistan. But it was not a human factor but Covid-19 which struck Pakistan in 2022 leading to worsening of economic crisis when the country was still receiving funds under 2019 EFF.

There were other factors too whose combination sent the Pakistan economy on a downward spiral. They were Russia's war with Ukraine and the devastating floods that rocked Pakistan in August that year.

The IMF decided in November 2022 to stop the disbursement of a pending $ 1.18 billion under the 2019 EFF due to the government's unwillingness to meet certain demands. These included assurances on increasing energy rates, imposing more taxes and stopping artificial control on exchange

It led to disastrous results. An already cash strapped Pakistan economy was pushed to the brink. Food and oil prices shot up, with Pakistan's inflation peaking at 38 per cent in May 2023. The Pakistani rupee (PKR) fell about 20 per cent against the US dollar while the country's foreign exchange reserves dwindled to under $ 3 billion in 2023.

SHASHANKA DAS

In 2023, Pakistan secured a nine month $ 3 billion Stand By Agreement (SBA) from the IMF. Even as the interim government worked to ensure fiscal discipline, as of September 2024. Pakistan's inflation rate stands at 7.5 per cent, its lowest in five years.

Supported by aid inflows of its allies like China, Saudi Arabia and UAE, Pakistan's foreign exchange reserves stand at $ 9 billion. But it still has an external debt of $ 130 billion of which it needs to pay $ 90 billion over the next three years.

A look at the current financial aid package reveal that an EFF is a financial assistance package offered by IMF to countries facing severe balance of payments issues. These are due to structural weakness that cannot be resolved in the short term.

It is to help implement medium term structural reforms. In Pakistan's case, these include strengthening monetary and fiscal policies including tax reforms, bolstering competition and rebuilding forex reserves. The package does not include servicing Pakistan's internal and external debts. It equals 81 per cent of last year's tax revenue.

There being no free lunches Pakistan has to undertake making sweeping tax reforms to widen its tax base. The government is committed to this in its budget for the current fiscal year. It hopes to collect up to $6.5 billion in additional taxes.

Rajnath pitches for greater role of

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Friday said at least 50 per cent of the country's total defence production should come through the participation of the private sector.

Addressing an event by the Society of Indian Defence Manufacturers (SIDM) here, he said the Russia-Ukraine war proved that the importance of a defence industrial base has "not lessened," rather there is a need to expand it.

Singh underlined that India was an "import-dependent nation" earlier in the defence sector, but the country is taking strides towards defence exports.

He urged the stakeholders in the defence sector to keep seeing the export and import figures, and said with a target-oriented approach, the ratio between the two can be reduced. "You know well our thinking and policy in the defence sector. Our those efforts but will endeavour to accelerate them as much as possible. Efforts to achieve self-reliance will be made more vocal, this is a firm conviction of our government," Singh said.

The defence minister highlighted government initiatives like the corporatisation of the Ordnance Factory Board, the establishment of two industrial defence corridors, and the encouragement of private industry by the DAP to enhance the role of the private sector in defence manufacturing. "We created an environment of ease of doing business in the country," Singh said. He also spoke of the "record growth" in the value of defence production in the country (CONTD. ON PAGE-2)

Political parties welcome granting of classical language status to Assamese

'Status will place Assamese in a distinct place in the world'

GUWAHATI, Oct 4: The Centre's decision to grant Assamese the status of classical language along with four others was welcomed by all political parties in the state.

Assam chief minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Friday said that for years, there were many controversies and movements regarding the Assamese language

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, however, ended this controversy forever by 'declaring Assamese and Bengali as classical languages. For this, the people of Assam will always be grateful to Modi ji,' Sarma said in a post on X.

He said that last night he had spoken to Modi and conveyed the gratitude of the people of Assam to the Government of India for according to Assamese the status of a Classical Language.

The recent violence in Manipur was not the first such incident that happened in the state as 500 to 800 lives were lost in the ethnic clashes in the past, but the previous governments at the Centre never paid attention.

The parliamentary affairs and minority affairs minister was talking to reporters here. When asked about violence-hit Manipur, Rijiju blamed the Congress for its 'misgovernance" in the state.

"Congress people did not pay attention to Manipur and the entire north-east India, due to which many militant organisations cropped up there. Nowhere else in the world are there so many militant groups as there are in the north-east," he said.

But in the last 10 years, more than 10,000 militants surrendered by laying down their weapons, and came into the mainstream in the north-east, he claimed.

A bench of Justices Abhay S Oka and Augustine George Masih asked the secretary of the State Legal Services Authority to nominate appropriate officers to make visits to the camp without prior notice to the authorities for the purpose of verifying cleanliness.

The top court directed the state legal services authority to file a report after inspection within one month from today. The matter has been posted for hearing on November 4. It had directed the secretary of the Assam State Legal Services Authority to ensure one more visit to ascertain the quantity and quality of the food supplied at the centre if cleanliness is maintained in the kitchen and the existence of medical and recreational facilities. While hearing the matter on May 16, the apex court observed that the Centre must take immediate steps for deporting 17 declared foreigners at the detention centre in Matia. It had said that priority should be given to deport four, who have spent more than two years in the detention centre. 185 Maoists eliminated so far in 2024 DANTEWADA, Oct 4: In one of the biggest operations against Maoists in Chhattisgarh, security personnel killed 28 Naxalites in a fierce encounter in the Bastar region on Friday, a senior police official said.

The gunfight broke out at around 1 pm in the forest between Thulthuli and Nendur villages in Abhujmaad on the Narayanpur-Dantewada inter-district border, when a joint team of security personnel was out on an anti-Naxal operation, Inspector General of Police (Bastar Range) Sundarraj P told PTI over the phone.

Personnel belonging to the state police's District Reserve Guard (DRG) and Special Task Force (STF) were involved in the operation, he said. Sundarraj informed that 28 Naxalites were gunned down in the encounter. A cache of weapons, including an AK-47 rifle and one SLR (self-loading rifle), were also recovered from the encounter spot, he said. Earlier, Dantewada Superintendent of Police Gaurav Rai had said around 30 Naxalites were killed in the gun battle. After the latest encounter, 185 Maoists have been gunned down by security forces in separate gun battles in the Bastar region comprising seven districts, including Dantewada and Narayanpur, so far this year, police said. On April 16, as many as 29 Naxalites, including some higher-ranking cadres, were killed in an encounter with security personnel in Kanker district.

Meanwhile, Union home minister Amit Shah during his review meeting of the inter-state coordination committee in Raipur in August this year declared that the country will be free from the Maoist menace by March

Peace-loving nation like India should have enough teeth: CDS

'Conflict is an inevitable part of human life'

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: Chief of Defence Staff Gen Anil Chauhan said the current geopolitical environment is in a "flux" and every nation is hedging a bet due to "this uncertain kind of a future" on Friday.

His remarks at an event hosted by the Society of Indian Defence Manufacturers (SIDM) here come in the backdrop of a prolonged Russia-Ukraine war and escalation in conflict in parts of West Asia.

The CDS, in his keynote address, also said the Israel-Hamas and Israel-Hezbollah conflicts are likely to "escalate further." "The world we see around us is actually going through an unprecedented kind of a crisis... The basic question that comes to everyone's mind is whether wars will continue to remain instruments of states' policy to resolve political disputes, the simple answer to all this is yes," Gen Chauhan said.

He told a gathering of defence industry leaders that he believes "conflict is an inevitable part" of human life and human nature, and wars and warfare have been part of civilisations. War and warfare are as old as human civilisation and they will continue. The current geopolitical environment is in flux and everyone, every nation is hedging a bet because of this uncertain kind of a future,

"Another important maxim about wars is that there are no runners-up and the winner takes all. Hence, all nations are actually, trying to, as they say, keep the powder dry. India too has to follow that suit," the CDS In his address, he also alluded to the first Joint Commanders' Conference held in Lucknow in September. Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, while addressing the conference, had said that India is committed to peace but should be prepared for a war, to preserve it. Gen Chauhan said, "A deterrence that is credible is the only way to preserve peace. Peace-loving nations like India should have enough teeth." He also quoted a couplet from a poem (CONTD. ON PAGE-2)

A division bench, comprising Chief Justice Vijay Bishnoi and Justice N Unni Krishnan Nair, ruled that since eight years have passed after the issuance of the select list by the APSC and no appointment has been provided to any of the selected candidates, it is deemed appropriate to set aside the selection process for the posts of District Malaria Officer.

Living standards to see steepest rise in coming decades: FM Nirmala Indians but to the rest of the world by becoming cen-

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: India will witness the steepest rise in living standards of the common man on the back of the government's initiatives and the efforts towards doubling per capita income in a few years, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Friday.

Addressing the 3rd edition of the Kautilya Economic Conclave, the minister stressed that inequality in India has declined with the Gini coefficient, a statistical tool to measure inequity, showing improvement in urban as well as rural areas.

"I expect these improvements to continue as the effects of the last ten years of economic and structural reforms manifest more thoroughly in the data in the coming years as the Covid shock fades from the economy," Sitharaman said.

The upcoming decades, the minister said, "will see the steepest rise in living standards for the common man, truly making it a period-defining era for an In-"While it took us 75 years to reach a per capita in-

"The upcoming decades will see the steepest rise in living standards for the common man, truly making it a period-defining era for an Indian to live in," she

The Indian government, she said, will try to double the per capita income in a matter of a few years for its 1.4 billion strong population (which makes up 18 per cent of the global total) notwithstanding the geopolitical challenges threatening world peace.

By 2047, as India crosses the 100-year mark of independence, she said, the new Indian era will have core characteristics similar to developed countries. The Viksit Bharat will usher prosperity not just to tral to a vibrant exchange of ideas, technology, and culture, she added.

Speaking on the country's financial system, she said the soundness and resilience of India's banking sector have been underpinned by a sustained policy focus on asset quality improvements, enhanced provisioning for bad loans, sustained capital adequacy, and a rise in profitability.

NPA (non-performing asset) ratios are at a multiyear low, and banks now have efficient debt recovery mechanisms. Ensuring that the financial system stays healthy and the cycle lasts longer is another of our core policy priorities, the minister said.

Highlighting the forces that will shape the Indian era, Sitharaman said, the country's youthful population provides a large base for total factor productivity improvements, savings, and investment.

While India's share of the young is set to rise over the next two decades, several other developing economies are past their demographic peak.

This will drive domestic consumption in the coming decade, she said, adding, "as of now, 43 per cent of Indians are younger than 24 years old, and they have yet to explore their (CONTD. ON PAGE-2)

Israeli airstrikes rock southern suburbs of Beirut and cut off key crossing into Syria ries of massive airstrikes overnight in southern suburbs of Beirut and another that cut off the main border crossing between Lebanon and Syria, a main crossing point for tens of thousands of people fleeing Israeli bombardment.

The blasts in the Beirut suburbs sent huge plumes of smoke and flames into the night sky and shook buildings km (miles) away in the Lebanese capital.

The Israeli military did not immediately comment on what the intended target was, and there was no information immediately available on casualties. Lebanon's state-run National News Agency reported there were more than 10 consecutive airstrikes in the area.

The Israeli military said on Friday that a strike in Beirut the day before killed Mohammed Rashid Skafi, the head of Hezbollah's communications division. The military said in a statement that Skafi was "a senior Hezbollah terrorist who was responsible for the communications unit since 2000" and was "closely affiliated" with high-up Hezbollah officials.

Friday's strike about 60 km (37 miles) to the east along the Lebanon-Syria border led to the closure of the road near the busy Masnaa Border Crossing.

Associated Press video footage showed two huge craters on each side of the road. People disembarked cars unable to pass the site of the strike, carrying bags of their possessions as they crossed on foot.

Tens of thousands of people fleeing war in Lebanon have crossed into Syria over the past two weeks there.

The airstrike came a day after an Israeli military spokesperson said Hezbollah has been trying to transport military equipment through the border crossing.

Hezbollah is believed to have received much of its weaponry from Iran via Syria. The group has a presence on both sides of the border, a region where it has been fighting alongside Syrian President Bashar Assad's forces.

The new wave of strikes came after Israel warned people to evacuate communities in southern Lebanon that are outside a United Nations-declared buffer zone, as the yearlong conflict between Israel and the Lebanese militant group Hezbollah escalates.

Israel launched a ground incursion into Lebanon on Tuesday and its forces have been clashing with Hezbollah militants in a narrow strip along the border. A series of attacks before the incursion killed some of the group's key members, including longtime leader Hassan Nas-

Lebanese officials. Araghchi's visit to Beirut came three days after Iran launched at least 180 missiles into Israel, the latest in a series of rapidly escalating attacks that threaten to push the Middle East closer to a regionwide war.

Iran is Hezbollah's main backer and has sent weapons and billions of dollars to the group over the years.

In the Iranian capital, Tehran, the country's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei led Friday prayers and delivered a speech where he praised the country's recent missile strike on Israel and said Iran was prepared to conduct more strikes if needed.

He spoke to thousands of people at the capital's main prayer site, the Mosalla mosque, which was decorated with a huge Palestinian flag.

Friday's strike at the border crossing was the first time this major border crossing has been cut since the beginning recorded 256,614 Syrian citizens and 82,264 Lebanese citizens crossing into Syrian territory between Sept 23 when the Israel launched a heavy bombardment of southern and eastern Lebanon — and Sept 30.

There are half a dozen border crossings between the two countries and most of them remain open. Lebanon's minister of public works said all border crossings between Lebanon and Syria work under the supervision of the state.

Israel and Hezbollah have traded fire across Lebanon's southern border almost daily since the day after Hamas' crossborder attack on Oct 7, 2023, in which the militants killed 1,200 Israelis and took 250 others hostage.

Meanwhile, the Israeli army said it carried out a strike Thursday in Tulkarem, a militant stronghold in the occupied West Bank, in coordination with the Shin Bet internal security service.

The Palestinian Health Ministry said 18 people were killed in an Israeli strike on a refugee camp there.

Violence has flared across the Israelioccupied territory since the Israel-Hamas war erupted in October 2023. Tulkarem and other northern cities have seen some of the worst violence.

Israel declared war on Hamas in the Gaza Strip in response to their Oct 7 attack. More than 41,000 Palestinians have since been killed in the territory, and just over half the dead have been women and children, according to local health officials. Nearly 2,000 people have been killed in Lebanon in that time, most of them since Sept 23, according to the Lebanese Health Ministry. (AP)

N Korea's Kim threatens to destroy S Korea with nuclear strikes if provoked

SEOUL, Oct 4: North Korean leader Kim Jong Un threatened to use nuclear weapons and destroy South Korea permanently if provoked, state media reported on Friday, after the South's leader warned that Kim's regime would collapse if he attempted to use nuclear arms.

The exchange of such rhetoric between the rival Koreas is nothing new, but the latest comments come during heightened animosities over the North's recent disclosure of a nuclear facility and its continuation of missile tests. Next week, observers say North Korea's rubber-stamp parliament is expected to constitutionally declare a hostile "two-state" system on the Korean Peninsula to formally reject reconciliation with South Korea and codify new national borders.

During a visit to a special operation forces unit on Wednesday, Kim said his military "would use without hesitation all the offensive forces it possesses, including nuclear weapons". if South Korea attempts to use armed forces encroaching upon the sovereignty of North Korea, according to the North's official Korean Central News Agency.

"If such a situation comes, the permanent existence of Seoul and the Republic of Korea would be impossible," Kim said, using South Korea's official name.

Kim's statement was a response to South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol's speech at his country's Armed Forces Day on Tuesday. Unveiling South Korea's most powerful Hyunmoo-5 ballistic missile and other conventional weapons that could target North Korea, Yoon said the day that North Korea tries to use nuclear weapons would be the end of the Kim government because Kim would face "the resolute and overwhelming response" of the South Korean-US alliance.

Kim responded that Yoon's address fully betrayed his "bellicose temerity" and showed "the security uneasiness and irritating psychology of the puppet forces".

In a derisive comment, Kim called Yoon "an abnormal man", saying that "the puppet Yoon bragged about an overwhelming counteraction of military muscle at the doorstep of a state that possesses nuclear weapons". On Thursday, Kim's sister and senior official, Kim Yo Jong, also ridiculed South Korea's showcasing of the Hyunmoo-5 missile, saying there is no way for South Korea to counter the North Korea's nuclear forces with conventional weapons.

Since adopting an escalatory nuclear doctrine in 2022, Kim has repeatedly threatened to use nuclear weapons preemptively. But many foreign experts say it is still unlikely that he would use his nuclear arms first because his military is outmatched by the US and its allied forces. In July, South Korea and the US signed a defence guideline on integrating South Korea's conventional capabilities with the US nuclear forces to better deal with North Korea's advancing nuclear programme. South Korea has no nuclear Animosities between the Koreas are at the worst point in years with Kim's provocative run of missile tests and the South Korean-US military exercises intensifying in a cycle of tit-fortat. COLOMBO, Oct 4: External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Friday met Sri Lankan President Anura Kumara Dissanayake and discussed "ways to deepen ongoing cooperation and strengthen India-Sri Lanka ties," and assured India's continued support to the island nation's economic rebuilding. Jaishankar, who is here on a day-

Japan's PM expresses regret for governing party slush fund scandal, vows stronger defence

TOKYO, Oct 4: New Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Ishiba opened his first policy speech in office on Friday by expressing deep regrets over the governing party's slush funds scandal that dogged Ishiba replaced Fumio Kishida on Tuesday with the paramount mission of quickly pacifying public anger over financial misconduct in the Liberal Democratic Party and regaining support ahead of an Oct 27 parliamentary election.

"I will achieve politics that is not for politicians but for the people," Ishiba said, pledging to provide sincere explanations and ensure that lawmakers abide by the rules. He set five policy pillars to uphold, including security, economy and disaster resilience. Ishiba said he will bolster Japan's military capability to defend itself from threats from China, Russia and North Korea under the framework of the Japan-US security alliance.

He did not mention two goals he advocated before taking office — making the Japan-US security alliance more equitable and establishing a NATO-like collective defense system in Asia — apparently to avoid controversy ahead of the election that the LDP

Omitting those goals also saves him from possibly irking Washington, but may disappoint those who saw him as willing to speak up even when he risked disagreement with his own party.

Ishiba noted violations of Japanese airspace last month by Chinese and Russian warplanes and North Korea's advancing missile technology and testing as examples of the worsening security environment that Japan faces and stressed the need for a further buildup of Japan's military.

He said he will promote a "strategic, mutually beneficial relationship" with China and increase communication on all levels to build "stable and constructive" ties. He also said he will further strengthen and expand Japan's ties with South Korea and the trilateral cooperation Japan has with it and the United States.

He called the Japan-US security alliance a cornerstone of Japanese diplomacy and security as well as the foundation of peace and prosperity in the Indo-Pacific region and international society.

The first public support ratings for Ishiba as prime minister were around 50% or even lower, the lowest levels for a new leader, according to Japanese media. Opposition leaders have criticised him for rushing to hold an election after only adding a new face and fresh image to the party without any concrete results. He plans to dissolve parliament next Wednesday for an election on Oct 27, allowing only a few days of debate on his policies. (AP)

Google says it will stop linking to New Zealand news if law passes forcing it to pay for content

WELLINGTON, Oct 4: Google said on Friday it will stop linking to New Zealand news content and will reverse its support of local media outlets if the government passes a law forcing tech companies to pay for articles displayed on their platforms.

The vow to sever Google traffic to New Zealand news sites — made in a blog post by the search giant on Friday — echoes strategies the firm deployed as Australia and Canada prepared to enact similar laws in recent years. It followed a surprise announcement by New Zealand's government in July forcing tech platforms to strike deals for sharing revenue generated from news content with the media outlets producing it.

The government, led by centre-right National, had opposed the law in 2023 when introduced by But the loss of more than 200 consider forcing tech companies to pay publishers for displaying content. The law aims to stanch the flow offshore of advertising revenue derived from New Zealand news prod-

The News Publishers' Association, a New Zealand sector group, said in a written statement on Friday that Google's pledge amounted to "threats" and reflected "the kind of pressure that it has been applying" to the government and news outlets, Public Affairs Director Andrew Holden said.

The government "should be able to make laws to strengthen democracy in this country without being subjected to this kind of corporate bullying," he said. (AP)

DHAKA, Oct 4: Malaysian Prime Minister Anwar Ibrahim arrived in Bangladesh's capital on Friday to meet with interim leader Muhammad Yunus, who took over in August after the former prime minister fled during a mass

Anwar's hourslong visit will focus on trade and investment, migrant workers and the Rohingya refugee crisis, officials and media reports said. Yunus received Anwar in Dhaka's Hazrat Shahjalal International Airport where he was welcomed with gun salutes and a red carpet reception. It is the first visit by a foreign leader to Bangladesh since Yunus took over on Aug 8 after former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina fled to India. It is also the first state visit by a Malaysian leader to Bangladesh in 11 years.

Anwar, who is arriving from Pakistan, is leading a 58member delegation. Next year, Malaysia will chair the Association for Southeast Asian Nations, and Bangladesh is eager to increase its trade with that region. Bangladesh is also pursuing a policy of increasingly involving ASEAN in resolving the Rohingya refugee crisis. More than 1 million Rohingya refugees from Myanmar live in camps in Bangladesh. (AP)

STAVANGER (NORWAY), Oct 4: Wars, a refugee crisis, famine and artificial intelligence could all be recognised when Nobel Prize announcements begin next week under a shroud of The prize week coincides with the Oct 7 anniversary of the Hamas-led attacks on Israel, which began a year of bloodshed and war across the Middle East. The literature and science prizes could be immune. But the Peace Prize, which recognizes efforts to end conflict, will be awarded in an atmosphere of ratcheting international violence

— if awarded at all.

"I look at the world and see so much conflict. hostility and confrontation, I wonder if this is the year the Nobel Peace Prize should be withheld," said Dan Smith, director of the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute.

As well as events roiling the Middle East, Smith cites the war in Sudan and risk of famine there, the ongoing conflict in Ukraine, and his institute's research showing that global military spending is increasing at its fastest pace since World War II.

"It could go to some groups which are making heroic efforts but are marginalised," Smith said. "But the trend is in the wrong direction. Perhaps it would be right to draw attention to that by withholding the peace prize this year."

Withholding the Nobel Peace is not new. It has been suspended 19 times in the past, including during the world wars. The last time it was not awarded was in 1972. However, Henrik Urdal, director of the Peace Research Institute Oslo, says withdrawal would be a mistake in 2024, saying the prize is "arguably more important as a way to promote and recognise important work for peace". Civil grassroot groups, and international organisations with missions to mitigate violence in the Middle East could be recognised. Nominees are kept secret for 50 years, but qualified nominators often publicise their picks. Academics at the Free University Amsterdam said they have nominated the Middle East-based organisations EcoPeace, Women Wage Peace and Women of the Sun for peace efforts between Israelis and Palestinians.

Urdal believes it's possible the committee could consider the Sudan Emergency Response Rooms, a group of grassroots initiatives providing aid to stricken Sudanese facing famine and buffeted by the country's brutal civil war. The announcements begin Monday with the physiology or medicine prize, followed on subsequent days by the physics, chemistry, literature and peace awards. The Peace Prize announcement will be made on Friday by the Norwegian Nobel Committee in Oslo, while all the others will be announced by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences in Stockholm. The prize in economics will be announced the following week on Oct 14.

Critics of AI warn the rise of autonomous weapons shows the new technology could mean additional peace-shattering misery for many people. Yet AI has also enabled scientific breakthroughs which are tipped for recognition in other categories.

David Pendlebury, head of research analysis at Clarivate's Institute for Scientific Information, says scientists from Google Deepmind, the AI lab, could be among those under consideration for the chemistry prize.

The company's artificial intelligence, AlphaFold "accurately predicts the structure of proteins," and is already widely used in several fields, including medicine, where it could one day be used to develop a breakthrough drug. Pendlebury spearheads Clarivate's list of scientists whose papers are among the world's most cited, and whose work it says are ripe for Nobel recognition. "AI will increasingly be a part of the panoply of tools that researchers use," Pendlebury said. He said he would be extremely surprised if a discovery "firmly anchored in AI" did not win Nobel prizes in the next 10 years. (AP)

In his speech, Bimal Bora mentioned that it is a great day for the people of the 83rd Margherita Constituency, as the Margherita sub-division office will now be known as the Margherita Co-District Commissioner Office. This was made possible due to the able leadership of the dynamic chief minister, Himanta Biswa Sarma, under whose initiative a total of 39 co-districts have been formed in Assam in the first phase.

Our Jorhat correspondent adds: State minister for Finance, Women and Child Development, Ajanta Neog, who is also the guardian minister of Jorhat district, on Friday inaugurated the Office of the Co-District Commissioner of the newly formed Titabar co-district at Titabar in Jorhat district.

Titabar, which was earlier a civil sub-division, is among 39 co-districts across the state, many of which have formally been made operational on Friday and the rest will be made operational on Saturday.

After inaugurating the Co-District Office within the Titabar SDO (Civil) Office complex, Neog, while addressing the gathering at the inaugural ceremony, said that constituting 'co-districts' within existing districts was a novel initiative of CM Himanta Biswa Sarma-led government and the first in the country, with an aim to decentralise district

People of Haryana will strike blow to break 'chakravyuh' of PM's 'crony capitalist' policies: Rahul

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: Alleging that the BJP has "failed" the economy in Haryana, Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Friday said the people of the state will soon strike the next blow to break the 'chakravyuh' of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "crony capitalist policies"

He also alleged that the "disease of unemployment" spread by the BJP has put the future of the state's youth in "deep danger" and a Congress government will ensure that employment returns and every family is prosperous.

Gandhi shared on X a video of his interaction with a group of women during his recent Vijay Sankaln Yatra

Along with the video, he said in his post in Hindi on X, "The disease of unemployment spread by BJP has put the roots of Haryana, the future of the youth and the security of the state in deep danger."

"Some sisters of Haryana gave shelter during the Vijay Sankalp Yatra, fed homemade rotis with great love and also explained the complex problems of the state." Gandhi said.

Today, Haryana has the highest unemployment in India, he said.

"The reason for this is - BJP has broken the backbone of every system that provides employment to the youth of the state in a decade," he allored

The BJP has broken the back of small businesses with flawed GST and demonetisation, Gandhi said.

It has broken the spirits of youth preparing for the army with Agniveer, he said.

The BJP has broken the courage of those doing agricultural business with black laws and broke the dreams of sportspersons by snatching their support, Gandhi further alleged.

It has broken families by stopping government recruitment with 'Parivar Pehchan Patra', he said.

"The result of this: Youth talent getting wasted in the grip of drugs. Disappointed youth taking the path of crime. Families getting destroyed by the journey of dangers like Dunki," he said.

The Congress government coming to power in the state will provide 2 lakh permanent jobs and make Haryana drug free, he said.

"I have promised the sisters of Haryana that I will stop this devastation, I will protect their children - employment will return, and every family will be prosperous," Gandhi asserted.

In another post on X, the former Congress chief recalled that he recently spoke about delicious jalebis in Gohana and the opportunity to sell them more widely.

India has 5,500 clusters of similar small producers who can market their products to the world if given the right support, he said.

They need policies to provide them with finance, technology, networks, branding and better organisation, Gandhi stressed.

"With this support, the world can enjoy not only our mithai but apples from Sopore, jeans from Ballari, Kolhapuri chappals, pineapples from Meghalaya, makhana from Bihar, brassware from Moradabad and many more. The global success of Banarsi saris is a great example of what is possible," he said. (PTI)

Heightened activities in Cong as Siddaramaiah faces rising political heat over MUDA case

BENGALURU, Oct 4: With Chief Minister Siddaramaiah facing rising political heat over a probe against him in the MUDA case, the Congress party in Karnataka is witnessing heightened political activities behind the scenes with a section of leaders seeking to position themselves in the event of his exit.

Amid demands by the BJP and JD(S) for his resignation over the MUDA (Mysuru Urban Development Authority) 'scam', the Chief Minister has repeatedly asserted in recent days that he won't quit as he hasn't done anything wrong and would fight the case legally.

The Lokayukta police and the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) have initiated separate investigations against Siddaramaiah and others into the alleged irregularities in the allotment of 14 sites to his wife Parvathi B M by the MUDA.

Senior leaders and Ministers G Parameshwara, H C Mahadevappa (both from SC communities) and Satish Jarkiholi (ST) met recently, fueling speculations about their collective strategy in case the party high command opts for leadership change over the 'scam' which has cast a shadow over the 16-month-old Siddaramaiah government. Earlier, Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar, who is also the state party chief, also had separate meetings with Parameshwara and Jarkiholi.

"Parameshwara and Shivakumar are seen to be front-runners for the top post in case Siddaramaiah is forced to go," a senior party leader said.

Jarkiholi has said in the past that he will be in the race for CM's post only in 2028 when the next Assembly elections are due in Karnataka.

The Congress leadership has backed Siddaramaiah on the MUDA issue and sees no reason for his resignation. The ruling party has accused the BJP of misusing the central agencies and the Governor's office to destabilise an elected government. Leaders such as R V Deshapande and M B Patil have openly aired their Chief Ministerial aspirations adding to the discomfiture of the ruling dispensation but some in the party see nothing wrong in that. BJP eyes hat-trick, Cong a comeback after a decade as Haryana votes today

CHANDIGARH, Oct 4: The fate of Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini, Bhupinder Singh Hooda and Vinesh Phogat of the Congress besides JJP's Dushyant Chautala and 1027 other candidates will be decided on Saturday as elections to the 90-member Haryana assembly will be held with over 2 crore people eligible to vote.

The ruling BJP is eyeing a hat-trick of wins in the state while the Congress is hoping to make a comeback after a decade. Counting of votes will be held on October 8.

Haryana's Chief Electoral Officer Pankaj Agarwal said 2,03,54,350 voters, including 8,821 centurions, are eligible to exercise their franchise and the voting will be held from 7 am to 6 pm.

A total of 1,031 candidates are contesting in all 90 assembly constituencies, including 101 women. Among these candidates, 464 are contesting as independent.

A total of 20,632 polling booths have been set up for voting, Agarwal said on Friday.

The key contesting parties in the fray are BJP, Congress,

AAP, INLD-BSP and JJP-Azad Samaj Party.

The high-octane campaign came to an end Thursday evening. The BJP's campaign was spearheaded by Prime Minister Narendra Modi who addressed four rallies, where he attacked the Congress on several issues and said they kept every matter important for the country entangled, including the Ram temple issue.

He also said corruption runs in veins of the Congress and alleged it has "turned into a party of 'dalals' (middlemen) and 'damad' (son-in-law)".

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi also addressed many public meetings where he asserted that a "Congress storm" is on its way in Haryana and his party would form the government which will be one for the poor and farmers, and a 'mohabbat ki dukan' will be opened in every corner of the state.

In the previous assembly polls in 2019, the BJP had won 40 seats, the Congress 31 and JJP 10.

The Congress has left the Bhiwani assembly seat for its INDIA bloc partner CPI(M) while the BJP is not contesting the Sirsa seat, from where Haryana Lokhit Party chief Gopal Kanda is seeking re-election.

Most seats are likely to see a direct fight between the BJP and the Congress.

Prominent among those in fray include Chief Minister Saini (Ladwa), Leader of Opposition Hooda (Garhi Sampla-Kiloi), INLD's Abhay Singh Chautala (Ellenabad), JJP's Dushyant Chautala (Uchana Kalan), BJP's Anil Vij (Ambala Cantt), Capt Abhimanyu (Narnaund) and O P Dhankar (Badli), AAP's Anurag Dhanda (Kalayat) and Congress's Phogat (Julana).

From Tosham seat, former MP Shruti Choudhry of BJP and Anirudh Chaudhary, both cousins, are contesting. (PTI)

Never felt like it was not my story: Sreemoyee Singh on her Iran-set documentary 'And, Towards Happy Alleys'

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: Filmmaker Sreemoyee Singh says she discovered Iranian feminist poet Forugh Farrokhzad's works when she was a university student and that gave shape to a desire to visit the country and document the stories of its people in "And, Towards Happy Alleys". The 75-minute documentary is a peek into the struggle of women, artists, and political dissidents in Iran. It is streaming on MUBI India.

The first-time filmmaker believes "And, Towards Happy Alleys" is as much about India as it is about Iran. The movie, shot in Tehran, is political but tackles issues of censorship in the country through the lens of cinema, music and poetry, she said.

"I have been singing and writing poetry all my life. Being able to express something in the right way matters to me. When I read Forugh Farrokhzad, I knew I had to go to Iran and meet these people, artists and understand how they find ways to be inspired," Singh told PTI in an interview. "I knew that I had to film their stories and, hopefully, something will shape up. We have seen so many political things around us where we have not been allowed to preserve who we are through our art. It never felt like it was not my story to tell," she added. Not having the baggage of expectations helped Singh capture moments of truth, whether it was meeting ordinary people on the streets or interacting with Iranian directors like Jafar Panahi and Mohammad Shirvani, known for resisting government censorship at great personal risk. Singh, a PhD degree holder in film studies from Kolkata's Jadavpur University, considers the film her love letter to Iranian cinema and filmmakers because the first window to its culture was through movies. She remembers being surprised at how these films challenged her perception of the country which was known to her as a place of conflict.

"You don't think you will see such hopeful stories. I was curious to know where they found the inspiration to just have so much hope and the idea that life must go on despite what's happening around.

"I was reading Persian poetry because when you are taught the Iranian new wave, hopefully, good teachers will read out the poetry that inspired this cinema. Poetry, as a form of art, preceded everything else in Iran. It is the most important method of expression in a place like Iran." Farrokhzad's poetry, she said, spoke to her younger self, with its expression of desire which could be "just to have a Coca-Cola, warmth of the sun or desire as we understand it".

The director was surprised that Farrokhzad, whose poem has inspired the title of the documentary, spoke of desire in a place like Iran through her writings. Farrokhzad died in a car accident in 1967 at the age of 32.

Singh also found it easy to learn Persian, a language that once connected India and Iran, and that gave her an access to the culture, which would not have been possible had she been a regular tourist or someone from the

"I was expecting the kindness of the people that I saw in films but people were even kinder there. They made me so comfortable. They protected me and became like family. "And people are crazy about our cinema. Like Hindi cinema that reaches Iran... Films of Raj Kapoor, 'Sholay' and everything... They are just crazy about it...

India is not even a land they consider far off from their country. So, I was loved even more." (PTI)

from hospital, says revolver just fell and went off

MUMBAI, Oct 4: Actor Govinda was discharged from hospital on Friday, three days after he injured his leg when his revolver accidently went off, and answered the top of mind question of what exactly happened. "Voh giri aur chal padi," he chuckled. The accident happened early on Tuesday morning when he was about to leave for the airport and he underwent a surgery the

The 60-year-old actor, nown for films such a "Love 86", "Swarg", "Dulhe Raja" and "Partner" and back in the spotlight, came out of the Criticare hospital in Juhu on a wheelchair and had a cast on his left leg.

The actor, a member of the Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena, was accompanied by his wife Sunita Ahuja and daughter Tina Ahuja. He greeted media persons and fans with folded hands.

"I was about to leave for a show in Kolkata. It was about 5 in the morning. Aur uss time par vo giri aur chal padi (and it just fell and went off). I was shocked by what happened and when I looked down, I saw a fountain of blood. Then I made a video and spoke to the doctor and got admitted," he told reporters waiting outside his home. Asked why a funloving actor like him has a revolver, he said, "When you have fame, you have to be cautious as there are people who love you and then there are those who envy you.'

Describing himself as an easy-going and fun person, the actor said his fans will hopefully learn from this and be alert as this could happen to anyone.

Govinda, known for his dancing skills and impeccable comic timing from his films in the late 1980s and 1990s, thanked his fans, Maharashtra Chief Minister Shinde, members from politics and film world for their well wishes. 'CITADEL' A DIALOGUE WITH INDIA OVER STORYTELLING, FILMS AND SHOWS: FILMMAKER ANTHONY RUSSO

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: Anthony Russo, the one half of the Russo brothers, says it's thrilling for them to join forces with Indian filmmakers for their globetrotting "Citadel" spyverse after witnessing India's passion for cinema first hand on their visits to the country to promote "Avengers: Endgame" and "The Gray Man". Anthony and his younger brother Joe Russo enjoy a massive fan following in India since they directed "Captain America: The Winter Soldier" in 2014.

Prime Video series "Citadel" is their most ambitious project and is led by Indian star Priyanka Chopra Jonas and Richard Madden of "Game of Thrones" fame.

"We are cinema lovers. We are very passionate. We were fanatical cinema goers before we became filmmakers. So we respond very strongly to film lovers and India has such a massive passion for film. It's electrifying," Anthony told PTI in an exclusive interview.

"Citadel: Honey Bunny", which releases in India on November 7, is directed by Raj Nidimoru and Krishna DK. The India chapter stars Varun Dhawan and Samantha Ruth Prabhu. 'It's a dialogue with India over storytelling, films and shows. It has been one of the most exciting parts to what we have been able to do as filmmakers is to be able to engage with Indian audiences," Anthony said about the India chapter of the series, which has an Italian companion in "Citadel: Diana", slated to release on October 10.

"Citadel", which saw Priyanka play Nadia Sinh, premiered last year on Prime Video and is already filming its second season. But before that, the Russos are bringing the action to India through "Citadel: Honey Bunny", written by Sita Menon.

"Now the great thrill here with 'Citadel', we really get to partner with Indian storytellers and filmmakers as well with DK and Raj and Sita. It's not only with the audiences but now with the creators. And that is thrilling to us," said the director.

Growing up in Ohio, the US, Anthony said he and his brother would often be found watching "obscure" films from every corner of the planet at the Cleveland Cinematheque, an alternative and repertory film theatre.

Bringing multiple cultures of countries like America, India and Italy together through 'Citadel" could very well become a blueprint of diversity both in front of and behind the camera, he said.

"Citadel' presents an entirely different opportunity for us to do something we have never done before... We connect with people everywhere through this show, through this show's storytelling. "The process of creative collaboration and co-creation is really intimate, powerful and strong and it's a very involved form of human communication so the fact that we can do that and share that dialogue with the audiences is the greatest thrill," he added.

"Citadel: Diana", which has Anthony, Joe and their sister Angela Russo-Otstot (AGBO) on board as executive producers, is the second series to debut from the world of "Citadel".

The show follows Matilda de Angelis' titular character, a spy in Manticore who is working undercover as a mole for its rival agency Citadel to unearth the truth behind her parents death. Between "Citadel" and "Citadel: Honey Bunny", where does "Citadel: Diana" fit in the grand scheme of things?

Angela said the two shows are set in different timelines and pay homage to their own cinematic histories in "wonderful" ways.

"'Citadel: Diana' takes place in the near future, in the year 2030. It's about eight years after the fall of 'Citadel' which we wit-> roughly in a similar timeline as 'Citadel' season one and 'Diana'. "However, in 'Honey Bunny' we are going to go back many decades to experience the childhood of Priyanka's character Nadia. So that series 2000's. The two timelines which we will be tracking,' she said. According to An-nessed in season one. So we are largely takes place in the 1990's and also gela, "Citadel: Honey Bunny" has a retro feel and is a bit more analog, whereas "Citadel: Diana" is slick and futuristic in terms of tech-

The level of execution from all our filmmakers, DK, Raj, Gina Gardini (showrunner) and Arnaldo Catinari (director) in 'Diana' is really exquisite. It is really thrilling for us," she added. Davil Weil, co-creator of "Citadel", said the new show allows the makers to answer many "thrilling" fan questions that emerged from the first series.

Through this long-format of global storytelling, the writer said they got a chance to "peek" between the different chapters of what they created in one series and shine a light on it in another one.

The connection is personal in both "Citadel: Diana" and "Citadel: Honey Bunny".

"People fell in love with Nadia, who wouldn't? It's Priyanka Chopra Jonas. What was so thrilling to see in 'Honey Bunny' is really diving into her origin story, who her parents were and it is a really beautiful love story at the centre... 'Citadel: Diana" allows us to peek inside Manticore, the antagonist to the Citadel spy organisation and really put a human face and a family at the centre of Manticore," David, who also serves as an executive producer on "Diana", said.

"Citadel: Diana" also honours Russo siblings' Italian roots. "Italy has a very special culture that influences so many people around the world but certainly the fact that our family history is rooted there, it has always spoken very powerfully to us. And we've been very tuned into it. So to be able to collaborate with them is a thrill for us," Anthony said. (PTI)

from three straight defeats, East Bengal will seek to rejuvenate their campaign under interim coach Bino George when they face a confident Jamshedpur FC in the ISL on Saturday.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 2024

After the resignation of Super Cup-winning coach Carles Cuadrat following the team's disastrous start to the season, East Bengal are in desperate need of points to lift themselves from the bottom of the table.

This match marks the Indian coach's first assignment at the helm, and he is determined to instill belief in his players.

"I have full faith in our players and their quality. They have been working very hard. Yes, the last three matches didn't go our way, and we made some mistakes. But I know the boys can come back stronger. That's what East Bengal is all about. They know their responsibilities well," George said.

In contrast, Jamshedpur FC heads into this match with momentum, having not lost to East Bengal in their last three encounters, including a 2-1 victory in February.

Despite this encouraging trend, the 'Men of Steel' are yet to secure back-to-back wins over their Kolkata rivals in the ISL.

Jamshedpur's head coach Khalid Jamil remains optimistic despite their recent loss to Odisha FC. "Every match is an opportunity to grow, and we are ready to give our best effort to secure a positive result," Jamil said.

East Bengal's captain, Cleiton Silva, is the highest goal-scorer in this fixture with three goals as he will be eager to break his scoring drought, having gone without a testing over 10 duels in each of his contribution in his last four ISL appearances. Jamshedpur forward Jordan Murray has emerged as a big competitor, consistently con-

However, with only three clean sheets to his name, he will need to elevate his performance to thwart Jamshedpur's attacking threats.

GWALIOR, Oct 4: Union talent should be identified and minister Mansukh Mandaviya on Friday said target has been set to position India among the top five Olympics medal-winning countries by 2047, when it celebrates the centenary of its independence.

In order to achieve this target, the country needs a talent-pool of world-level coaches and training, the Youth Affairs and Sports Minister told reporters here after taking part in the 10th Convocation ceremony of Laxmibai National Institute of Physical Education (LNIPE)

"I am happy to be in Gwalior as it is the workplace of late Rajmata Vijayaraje Scindia. The country is marching ahead in the sports sector."

"When India hosts the Olympics in 2036, it should rank among the top 10 nations in sports," Mandaviya said.

'And when the nation celebrates 100 years of independence in 2047, the country should rank among the top five countries in the field of sports," he

"For achieving this target, the country needs a talent pool of world-level coaches and training and the LNIPE in Gwalior is playing a major role in it," the minister added.

The country needs good coaches, training, and sporting given opportunities, he said.

Good coaches are being groomed in LNIPE by offering diploma, graduation, post-graduation and PhD degrees to them, and they will play a major role in nurturing the new generation in the sports sector, according to

Addressing the convocation ceremony earlier, Mandaviya said it was a matter of pride that he was taking part in a programme at the institute that is named after Rani Laxmibai of Jhansi, who started the battle for freedom and fought against the British, and stood as a symbol of valour.

He said that as a sports minister he has set the target of taking India among the top 10 sporting nations by 2036 and among top five by 2047.

Physical education teachers should have the feeling of "nation first" and resolve to make the country a developed, he Mandaviya also inaugurated a 400-bed capacity hostel and a digital studio on the occasion.

David Skinns opens with a 60 to lead Sanderson Farms Championship

JACKSON, Oct 4: David mines the 125 players who keep Skinns of England set a personal best and a course record with a 12-under 60 to lead the Sanderson Farms Championship. And he couldn't help but be a little disappointed. Skinns ran off six birdies on the back nine and six more on the front nine at the Country Club of Jackson, and he faced one last birdie putt from just inside 10 feet on his final hole. It never had a chance, missing on the low side. Skinns, a 42-year-old from England, still had a three-shot lead over Michael Thorbjornsen.

"How many 9-footers are you going to get to shoot 59?" Skinns said. "I'm sure I'm not going to get many. Tough not to be a little bit disappointed, but I really want to just look back on how in control mentally I felt, how I kept attacking. Wasn't really thinking about the future at all, which is kind of the thing I'm going to take away from today.'

The future is a big part of the Sanderson Farms Championship, one of eight PGA Tour events in the "FedEx Cup Fall" that deter-a full card for next year.

Skinns was at No. 108, and his 60 gives him a big step in the right direction.

Former U.S. Open champion Gary Woodland, making steady progress from brain surgery a year ago, played-bogey free for a 64 and was tied with Ben Griffin.

Rickie Fowler, playing for the first time since the British Open because he missed the FedEx Cup playoffs and his wife gave birth to their second daughter, hit two shots in the water and rallied Fowler is at No. 110 but has another year of full exemption from winning the Rocket Mortgage Classic last year.

Skinns hit only five fairways, but he was rarely out of position. The two times he was not on the putting green in regulation he made birdie. He also holed birdie putts of 55 feet and 25 feet during the round, and five other birdies outside 10 feet.

"Great to see a couple go in that maybe some days don't," Skinns said. (AP)

their maiden ISL victory in an away match against Chennaiyin FC, debutants Mohammedan Sporting will aim to carry the same momentum when they square off with heavyweights Mohun Bagan in a lesser known 'Kolkata Derby' this Saturday.

With bragging rights as well as points on the line, Mohammedan Sporting will be eager to prove themselves against one of Indian football's most dominant forces and resume their rivalry in the ISL.

The black and white brigade secured their maiden win in the ISL by defeating Chennaiyin FC 1-0 last week with Lalremsanga Fanai scoring the decisive goal. Despite Chennaivin's attempts to fight back in the second-half, Mohammedan's defence led by Joseph Adjei and Vanlalzuidika Chhakchhuak remained resolute to take home full three points that has kept them ahead of the city rivals on goal difference.

Mohun Bagan, who are the League Shield Winners, on the other hand are coming on the back of a 0-3 loss to Bengaluru FC as they will be looking to regroup and infuse fresh energy to their attacking duo of Dimitri petratos and Jason Cummings. Petratos is on the brink of his 50th ISL appearance for the Mariners, and his experience will be vital in guiding the team through in pressure cooker scenario.

The key for the midfield marshalled by Greg Stewart and Manvir Singh will be to dominate possession, pressing high up the pitch and using their full-backs to provide width.

Lalengmawia Ralte has been flawless defensively, winning cial in stopping Mohammedan's attacks.

Despite their attacking prowess, Mohun Bagan head coach Jose Molina has expressed concern about his team's defensive frailties.

The Mariners have conceded seven goals in their three matches so far, which has put pressure on their ability to secure results.

Molina has identified that many of their defensive issues stem from mistakes in attack, emphasising that improving their offensive play will help tighten the defense.

'We're conceding too many goals, and some of them are due to mistakes at the back, but most are because of errors in attack. To improve defensively, we need to attack better," Molina said.

Mohammedan Sporting, however, may opt for a more cautious approach as they are likely to sit back, absorb pressure, and hit on the counter using the pace of Alexis Gomez and Franca up front.

EU's top court says some FIFA rules on int'l transfers are contrary to the bloc's law

WASHINGTON, Oct 4: The free movement of professional European Union's top court said Friday that some FIFA rules on player transfers are contrary to European Union legislation relating to competition and freedom of movement, in a ruling that will likely lead to a shakeup of the soccer market's regulations and change the sport's economy.

The court's ruling came after former France international Lassana Diarra legally challenged FIFA rules following a dispute with a club dating back to a decade ago. Diarra argued that FIFA's restrictions meant he was unable to find a new club after his contract with Russian club Lokomotiv Moscow was terminated in FIFA's rules state that if a player terminates his contract without "just cause," the player and any club wishing to sign him are jointly liable for paying compensation to the previous club. "Those rules hinder the free movement of players and competition between clubs," the court said in a statement. "The rules in question are such as to impede the footballers wishing to develop their activity by going to work for a new club.

The court added that current rules "impose considerable legal risks, unforeseeable and potentially very high financial risks as well as major sporting risks on those players and clubs wishing to employ them which, taken together, are such as to impede international transfers of those players.

Diarra had signed a four-year contract with Lokomotiv Moscow in 2013. The deal was terminated a year later after Diarra was unhappy with alleged pay cuts.

Lokomotiv Moscow applied to the FIFA dispute resolution chamber for compensation and the player submitted a counterclaim seeking compensation for unpaid wages. The Court of Arbitration for Sport found the Russian club terminated the contract with Diarra "with just cause" and the player was ordered to pay 10.5 million euros ($11.2 million).

Diarra claimed his search for a new club was hampered by FIFA's rules stipulating that any new side would be jointly responsible with him for paying compensation to Lokomotiv.

The former Real Madrid player also argued that a potential deal with Belgian club Charleroi fell through because of the FIFA rules, and sued FIFA and the Belgian federation at a Belgian court for damages and loss of earnings of six million euros ($7 million). With the lawsuit still going through Belgian courts, the case was referred to the European Court of Justice for a ruling.

Although the court said FIFA transfer regulations can help maintain a form of stability within professional squads and help guarantee the regularity of compe-

Concerning competition rules, the court slammed FIFA's rulings for restricting and preventing cross-border competition between tion (by the Belgian court) in a European clubs. "The Court recalls that the pos-

12 THE HILLS TIMES FIFA opts not to suspend Israel but will investigate Palestinian claims

ZURICH, Oct 4: FIFA stopped short of suspending the Israeli soccer federation on Thursday, but asked for a disciplinary investigation of possible discrimination alleged by Palestinian soccer officials.

A senior FIFA panel overseeing governance will separately investigate "the participation in Israeli competitions of Israeli football teams allegedly based in the territory of Palestine," soccer's governing body said after a meeting of its ruling Council.

The Palestinian soccer federation has consistently asked FIFA for more than a decade to take action against the Israeli soccer body for incorporating teams from West Bank settlements in its leagues. The compromise decisions came more than four months after Palestinian officials had urged FIFA to suspend Israel's membership at a

The request to FIFA's congress in May also cited "international law violations" in Gaza during the Israel-Hamas conflict and directed the soccer body to its statutory commitments on human rights and against discrimination.

FIFA delayed making a decision in May until after a legal review scheduled for July, then pushed back the issue two more times until a meeting of its 37-member Council on Thursday

"The FIFA Council has implemented due diligence on this very sensitive matter and, based on a thorough assessment, we have followed the advice of the independent experts," FIFA president Gianni Infantino said in a statement.

Ahead of the meeting, Palestinian soccer federation leader Jibril Rajoub and its vice president Susan Shalabi came to Zurich to lobby

Several European federations had already refused to play scheduled games against Russia, including Poland and its captain Robert Lewandowski. They said they would not go to Moscow for a World Cup qualifying playoff in March 2022.

FIFA later successfully argued at the Court of Arbitration for Sport that keeping Russian teams in its competitions would cause chaos and be a security risk. Russian teams have not played in World Cups, European Championships or the Champions League for more than 2 1/2 years.

In the case of Israel, which has been a member of UEFA for 30 years, no European federation has refused to play its national or clubs teams. Israeli teams have played home games in neutral countries such as Hungary and Cyprus for security reasons since the Hamas attacks one year ago.

After cancellation of tri-nation tourney, India to play Vietnam on Oct 12 in football friendly

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: The Indian men's football team will play an international friendly against Vietnam on October 12 following the cancellation of a tri-nation tournament in the South East Asian country.

Lebanon pulled out of the tri-nation event, citing difficulties in flying out of the country due to the ongoing crisis at home. The tournament was planned in the FIFA international match window from October 7-15. India were earlier scheduled to play against Vietnam on October 9 and Lebanon on October 12 in the tournament at the Thien Truong Stadium in Nam Dinh, around 100 km from Hanoi.

"The Indian senior men's team will face Vietnam in a one-off friendly match on Saturday, October 12, 2024, following the withdrawal of Lebanon from the tri-nation friendly tournament," the All India Football Federation (AIFF) said in a statement.

"The match will be played at the Thien Trương Stadium in Nam Dinh, and will be designated as an official friendly, with points counting towards the FIFA Rankings.'

The AIFF said it requested the host federation to reschedule the Vietnam-India match, which was earlier scheduled for October 9. Earlier, the Vietnam Football

IOC tells NOCs to derecognise boxing bodies that remain tied to IBA, which calls it disturbing

NEW DELHI, Oct 4: The IOC has escalated its feud with the International Boxing Association by effectively asking member countries to derecognise national federations that remain aligned to the suspended body, a directive that the IBA lambasted as "unacceptable

In a letter sent to National Olympic Committees (NOCs) on September 30, the IOC reiterated that boxing federations that do not end ties with IBA will be barred from the 2028 Los Angeles Olympics. "NOCs shall no longer affiliate or maintain institutional relations with national boxing federations that are still affiliated to the IBA", the IOC stated in its letter. ...any boxer whose national federation adheres to the IBA will not be able to participate in the LA28 Olympic Games. The NOC concerned must exclude such a national boxing federation from its members," it warned.

The IOC had issued a similar directive in May, asking NOC's to exclude National Boxing Federations from its membership if they continue to align with the IBA.

The latest development comes a few weeks after the Asian Boxing Confederation (ASBC) voted against breaking away from the IBA to join World Boxing, which has the IOC's backing.

India also joined World Boxing earlier this year but also stated that it was doing so without giving up its IBA membership. The move was criticised by the IBA which warned the country that it cannot expect to sail in two boats.

There hasn't been any clarity on the matter after that. The IBA, which has been suspended for governance related issues and corruption, was expectedly furious with the IOC's latest missive to NOCs and called it an attempt to violate the independence of fed-

"The letter sent to all National Olympic Committees (NOCs) on 30 September is a testament to the IOC's outrageous political games," the IBA stated a media release

The body called the letter "deeply disappointing, and on the verge of sporting blackmail.' IBA Secretary General and CEO Chris Roberts has written to the NOCs to explain its position on the matter. "The unprecedented pressure from the IOC towards those NOCs is classed as 'direct interference' to independent IBA members' agendas, who expressed their democratic will to be part of the IBA and a democratically elected President that they trust," it said. "We urge our National Federations to remain calm, and not to follow these 'gaslighting' intentions of the IOC, who wants to damage boxing. With an attempt to influence members behind the scenes, is not the way we would expect this organisation to operation," it added.

Boxing is currently not a part of the 2028 LA Olympic program. According to the the IOC, a recognised International Federation needs to be formed by early 2025, as the IBA is no longer seen as a viable choice, to guarantee boxing's inclusion in the LA Games. (PTI)

DUBAI, Oct 4: Shafali Verma, the significant other of the blockbuster Indian opening pair, says her no-holds-barred approach goes well with Smriti Mandhana's elegance and both can "sense each others feelings just by our facial expressions" while batting.

One of the factors behind the Indian women's cricket team's dominance in recent times has been the success of its openers, and Shafali admits they know how "important' they are to the team's fortunes.

"I've been opening with Smriti for the past two-three years, and now we can sense each other's feelings just by our facial expressions while batting. We know each other's strengths and weaknesses, and we give each other positive vibes," Shafali told Star Sports when asked about her on-field relationship with Mandhana.

"We understand how important we both are to the team, especially during the powerplay, so we try to perform well for ourselves, our teammates, and the country.

year-old and having missed the trophy by a whisker then, she is hoping to change that this time around.

"The tournament was special, and I performed well for the team. Thinking back to that World Cup always brings a smile to my face. We were so close to winning, but hopefully, we can change that this time around.

"I was lost in the atmosphere and the noise, but I've learned to focus more now. I wouldn't feel the same pressure if I were in that situation again." (PTI)
