Leopard enters Guwahati house, sparks panic

GUWAHATI, Dec 27: Panic prevailed in the densely populated Kumarpara area of Guwahati city on Friday, after a leopard was found taking shelter inside a house, an official said.

The leopard, suspected to have strayed into the residential area from the nearby hills, was found in the staircase of the house.

Efforts were made to trap the animal by tranquilising it, but the leopard after receiving the first shot escaped from the spot, he said.

The forest department has launched an operation to capture the leopard.

Meanwhile, prohibitory orders were clamped in Kaliabor co-district after a Royal Bengal Tiger strayed from the Kaziranga National Park and Tiger Reserve, injuring a woman and killing another earlier this week.

The tiger's movement has been spotted in the Kaliabor Tea Estate, Sonarigaon, and Silghat areas.

The prohibitory orders restrict the entry and movement on the new PWD road from Silghat/Rubber Bari via Silghat Kamakhya Temple to Sonarigaon/Kamakhya village, as well as the surrounding tea plantation area, from 4 pm to 9 am. The orders will remain in force until further notice, but is not applicable to police and other security personnel, forest staff, or government officials on duty, according to an official notification. # China defends plan to build world's largest dam over Brahmaputra River in Tibet

BEIJING, Dec 27: China on Friday defended its plan to build the world's largest dam on the Brahmaputra River in Tibet, saying the project will not "negatively affect" lower riparian states and that safety issues have been addressed through decades of studies Chinese Foreign ministry spokesperson Mao Ning played down apprehensions about the massive project to dam the Brahmaputra River, which is called Yarlung Zangbo in Tibet. The project estimated to cost around USD 137 billion is located in the ecologically fragile Himalayan region, along a tectonic plate boundary where earthquakes occur frequently.

Mao said China carried out in-safeguard measures. China has always been responsible for the development of crossborder rivers, Mao told a media briefing here in response to a question on the concerns related to the dam. She said the hydropower development there has been studied in depth for decades, and safeguard measures have been taken to ensure the project's security and ecological environment protection.

"The project will not negatively affect the lower reaches," she said referring to the concerns in India and Bangladesh which are the lower riparian states

injured in Punjab's Bathinda bus accident

BATHINDA (PUNJAB), Dec 27: Eight people were killed and more than 20 injured on Friday, when a bus crashed through the railing of a bridge and plunged into a drain a few feet below in this Punjab district, police said.

The bus had more than 45 passengers and it fell into the Lasara drain in Jeewan Singhwala village, officials said.

The accident occurred when the bus was on its way to Bathinda from Talwandi Sabo. Locals rushed to the spot immediately to help the passengers, the officials said, adding that eight people, including five women, were killed.

Police and district administration officials launched a rescue operation and rushed the injured people to a hospital. A National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) team also reached the spot to provide assistance, the officials said.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed grief over the incident. "Saddened by the loss of lives in the bus accident in Bathinda, Punjab. Condolences to those who lost their loved ones. GUWAHATI, Dec 27: Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma further consolidated his position in both state and national politics by pushing the BJP's Hindutva agenda and engaging in intense anti-Congress rhetoric.

From banning the consumption of beef in public and intensifying the fight against child marriage to leading the BJP to significant electoral victories. Sarma's policies kept him in the limelight. The Assam leg of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's

Bharat Jodo Nyay Yatra in January faced challenges due to the state government's refusal to allow him to offer prayers at the birthplace of Vaishnav saint Srimanta Sankardeva at Batadrava, and also to enter Guwahati city. The Congress leaders and party workers tried to break through barricades and engaged in a scuffle with the police, leading to injuries to senior party leaders and

The chief minister's evident animosity towards Gandhi again came to the fore when Sarma accused the Congress leader of using a 'body double' during the yatra. The CM claimed the 'body double' has been identified and the details will be revealed but failed to pro-from opposition parties as a "political gimmick" to polarise voters and also an infringement upon people's freedom. The BJP, however, countered by stating that the decision will help to preserve cattle and create a society where the religious sentiments of all communities

The state cabinet also approved the abolition of 'The Assam Moslem Marriages and Divorces Registration Act and Rules of 1935', which permitted underage marriages under specific conditions, and the government subsequently tabled the repealing Bill in the assembly. The chief minister asserted this was done to not only abolish child marriages but to bring registration of Muslim marriages and divorces under a proper system of the government.

The state government also continued to crack the whip on child marriage for the third time in two years with 431 people arrested and 345 cases registered in December. Authorities claimed these drives have led to a considerable decline in maternal and infant mortality rates. The policies adopted by the state government ensured that Sarma remained in the limelight and he was rewarded with election campaign responsibilities during assembly polls in Odisha, Rajasthan, Haryana, Maharashtra, Karnataka and Jharkhand. The chief minister also successfully led the NDA in the state to an impressive win in the Lok Sabha polls, (CONTD. ON PAGE-2)

Climate change led to 41 additional days of extreme heat in 2024, says new report

NEW DELHI, Dec 27: The world experienced an average of 41 more days of extreme heat in 2024 due to climate change, a new report said on Friday. According to the European climate agency Copernicus, 2024 is set to end as the warmest year on record and the first year with a global average temperature 1.5 degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels.

A yearly review report by two groups of climate scientists --World Weather Attribution (WWA) and Climate Central -- said the world saw an average of 41 more days of dangerous heat in 2024.

were hit the hardest, with their people experiencing over 130 adtreme weather events in 2024 and studied 29 of them. They found that climate change contributed to at least 3,700 deaths and displaced millions in 26 extreme weather events

"It is likely the total number of people killed in extreme weather events intensified by climate change this year is in the tens or hundreds of thousands," the report said. The floods in Sudan, Nigeria, Niger, Cameroon, and Chad were the deadliest event studied by the group, with at least 2,000 people

The study found that if global warming reached two degrees Celsius, which could happen as early as the 2040s or 2050s, these regions might face similar heavy rainfall events every year.

Friederike Otto, lead of WWA and senior lecturer in climate science at the Imperial College, London, said, "The impacts of fossil fuel warming have never been clearer or more devastating than in 2024. We are living in a dangerous new era.

However, a permanent breach of the 1.5-degree Celsius limit specified in the Paris Agreement refers to long-term warming over a 20- or 30-year period.

That said, experts feel that the world is now entering a phase where temperatures will be consistently above this threshold.

According to the latest shareholding data, the total stake of all promoter shareholders with the surname Chamaria stands at 11.25 per cent. The development comes three days after the Aditya Birla group firm completed the acquisition of a controlling stake in India Cements Ltd, turning the southbased company into its subsidiary.

The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, the UN body for assessing the science related to climate change, says global emissions must peak by 2025 and reduce by 43 per cent by 2030 and 57 per cent by 2035 compared to 2019 levels to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees Celsius.

However, according to the latest UN data, current policies will take global warming to around 3 degrees Celsius by 2100. Even the full implementation of all Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) or national climate plans will likely lead to just a 5.9 per cent emission reduction by 2030 compared to 2019 levels, according to the synthesis report of countries' NDCs. Fossil fuels -- coal, oil, and gas -- are the largest contributors to climate change, accounting for over 75 per cent of global greenhouse gas emissions and nearly 90 per cent of all carbon dioxide emissions.

However, the world is struggling to transition away from fossil fuels rapidly enough to prevent breaching the 1.5-degree Celsius goal due to a combination of political, economic, technological, and social challenges. The transition to clean energy sources is particularly difficult for poor countries in the Global South due to dependence on fossil fuels for jobs and cheap energy, lack of funding and technology, weak power grids, and

These immigrant visa holders became permanent residents upon their arrival, adding to the already rich and sizable Indian diaspora community in the US, it said. The US mission to India also provided more than 24,000 passports and other consular services to American citizens living and travelling in India, it noted. A new version of the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP) debuted in 2024, making it easier for the embassy and consulates to contact American citizens during emergencies and send them safety and security alerts, the embassy added.

It said increase in processing of thousands of interview waiver-eligible nonimmigrant visa applications each week made it quicker and easier than ever for Indians to renew their nonimmigrant visas. "By streamlining operations and utilizing global consular resources, the US mission has been able to redirect its own resources to focus on in-person interviews, reducing wait times for all applicants," it said.

The mission also provided details about visas issued to Indian students "More Indian students than ever before now have U.S. student visas. In 2024, India became the top sender of international students for the first time since the 2008/2009 academic year with more than 331,000 students overall studying in the US," it said. It further added that India also remained the largest sender of international graduate students in the US for the second year.

Indian graduate student numbers increased by 19 per cent to reach almost 200,000 students, according to the details. "Many exchange visitors will now be able to remain in the United States and not need to return home for two years after completing their programmes in the US, offering them more opportunities to further their careers and education," the embassy said.(PTI) residence -- the sprawling bungalow in Lutyens' Delhi that served as his retirement abode for the last over 10 years ever since he relinquished charge as prime minister. Several leaders paid their last respects to the former prime minister in the presence of his wife Gursharan Kaur and other family members. Singh would be cremated on Saturday and his final journey will commence from the AICC headquarters on Saturday, Congress general secretary K C Venugopal said.

The last rites of Singh will be conducted at 11:45 am Saturday at the Nigambodh Ghat crematorium here with State honours, the Union Home Ministry said. "It has been decided by the Government that State funeral will be accorded to Dr. Manmohan Singh. The funeral will take place at 11:45 AM on 28h December, 2024 at Nigambodh Ghat, New Delhi," the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) said in a communication on Friday.

Modi said Singh's life would always serve as a lesson for the future generations on how someone can rise above deprivation and struggles to attain the heights of success. Noting that he served in various capacities in the government, the prime minister said Singh put the country on a new economic path as finance minister in the government headed by P V Narasimha Rao.

"As prime minister, his contribution to the country's development and progress will always be remembered," he added. Union ministers Amit Shah and Rajnath Singh, and BJP president J P Nadda also paid their tributes to Singh. Tamil Nadu chief minister M K Stalin, Andhra Pradesh chief minister N Chandrababu Naidu, Himachal Pradesh chief minister Sukhwinder Singh Sukhu and Telangana chief minister Revanth Reddy also came to Delhi to pay their last respects to the former prime minister. Delhi chief Minister Atishi, former Delhi chief minister Arvind Kejriwal and former Uttar Pradesh chief minister Akhilesh Yadav also paid their last respects to Singh. Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) chief Mohan Bhagwat and general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale condoled his passing, saying his contributions to Bharat would always be remembered.

Born to Gurmukh Singh and Amrit Kaur on September 26, 1932 in Gah village of the Punjab province of undivided India (now Pakistan), Singh passed his matriculation examination in 1948. His family migrated to Amritsar after Partition in 1948 after living shortly in Haldwani.

Singh completed his intermediate and graduation in economics from the Hindu College here before moving out of the city to pursue higher studies in Panjab University's Hoshiarpur campus. His academic career took him from Punjab to the University of Cambridge, UK, where he earned a First Class Honours degree in Economics. Singh followed this with a DPhil in Economics from Nuffield College of Oxford University.

Singh's half-brother Surjit Singh Kohli said the former prime minister had deep affection for his grandmother, who raised him following his mother's death when he was very young. After migrating to India, the Singh family settled in a small rented house in Amritsar till he graduated. A few years ago, Singh attended the convocation-cum-alumni meet of the Hindu College in Amritsar as chief guest and interacted with the staff like an ordinary person, reminiscing old memories, retired Hindu College professor Rajinder Loomba said.

Raj Kumar (71), an Amritsar resident, told PTI Videos that Singh used to live in Petha Wala Bazaar near the Golden Temple. The house where the Singh family lived is in a dilapidated state now, Kumar said. Some locals recalled Singh as someone who always took pains for Amritsar, saying the United Progressive Alliance (UPA) government he headed sanctioned several projects for the holy city. His passing also witnessed people from various fields sharing their anecdotes about him. The social media was flooded with pictures that people posted along with the former prime minister and shared their memories with fondness and nostalgia (PTI) clean energy and respond to climate change and extreme hydrological disasters. The total investment in the dam could exceed one trillion yuan (USD 137 billion), which would dwarf any other single infrastructure project on the planet, including China's own Three Gorges Dam which is regarded as the largest in the world, the Hong Kongbased South China Morning Post reported on Thursday.

China has already operationalised the USD 1.5 billion Zam Hydropower Station, the largest in Tibet in 2015. The Brahmaputra dam was part of the 14th Five-Year Plan (2021-2025) and National Economic and Social Development and the Long-Range Objectives Through the Year 2035 adopted by Plenum, a key policy body of the ruling Communist Party of China (CPC) in 2020. Concerns arose in India as the dam besides empowering China to control the water flow could enable Beijing to release large amounts of water flooding border areas in times of hostilities because of its size and scale. India too is building a dam over Brahmaputra in Arunachal Pradesh.

India and China established the Expert Level Mechanism (ELM) in 2006 to discuss various issues related to trans-border rivers under which China provides India with hydrological information on the Brahmaputra and Sutlej Rivers during the flood seasons. (PTI)

The BJP and its allies also emerged victorious in the by-elections to four assembly constituencies, vacated by members who were elected to the Lok Sabha, with the ruling party successfully breaching the minority stronghold Samaguri, held for over 25 years by the Congress. The implementation of the Citizen Amendment Act (CAA) in March this year appears to have had no impact in the state with only one person, originally from Bangladesh receiving citizenship so far.

Meanwhile, the Centre unlocked the biometrics of over 9 lakh people from Assam who were affected during the National Register of Citizens (NRC) process for issuing Aadhaar cards. The state cabinet, however, decided on the linking of Aadhaar cards with NRC, stating that all applicants will get the unique identity card only if they had applied for NRC. The signing of the tripartite peace agreement with the pro-talks faction of ULFA heralded some hope for lasting peace, although there were misgivings about its fruitfulness as no breakthrough was made regarding dialogue with ULFA(I) led by Paresh Barua.

Although insurgency-related violence dipped over the years, sporadic incidents such as ULFA(I) claiming to have planted 'bomb-like objects' during Independence Day and the arrest of militants from a few Upper Assam districts were reported. Security concerns in Assam remained high with the arrest of suspected terrorists, including some Bangladeshis and Rohingyas, who were using the state as a corridor to either go to Delhi or Kashmir.

The situation in neighbouring Bangladesh following the deposition of former prime minister Sheikh Hasina and alleged atrocities on minorities in that country also led to concerns in Assam, which shares a 263-km-long border, with the state police beefing up security along the bordering districts.

The recent visit of Sarma to Bhutan, however, opened up new vistas for strengthening economic ties with the Himalayan country. The state was also rocked by the online trading scam which came to the fore in August this year when investors, who had put in huge sums of money in 29-year-old Deepankar Barman's company, complained that he had not paid them the due returns and his office has been closed since August 21. #### Manmohan Singh's reforms transformed India, unshackled economy: Economists

NEW DELHI, Dec 27: Former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh's 1991 budget unshackled India's economy, significantly enhancing the economic prospects for hundreds of millions of Indians, first deputy managing director of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) Gita Gopinath said on Friday.

In a social media post on X, Gopinath further said Singh's visionary reforms inspired countless young economists like her.

"Dr Manmohan Singh's 1991 budget unshackled India's economy, significantly enhancing the economic prospects for hundreds of millions of Indians. His visionary reforms inspired countless young economists like me. Rest in peace, Dr Manmohan Singh," she said. Singh, the architect of India's economic reforms, died here at the age of 92 late on Thursday. He served as the prime minister for two terms -- from 2004 to 2014.

Former RBI Governor Raghuram Rajan said Singh was a brilliant economist with a visionary outlook on India's potential, combined with a fine sense of political feasibility.

Rajan described Singh as understated and soft-spoken, qualities that enabled him to attract some of the brightest minds to his team, including Montek Singh Ahluwalia, C Rangarajan and Rakesh Mohan.

"He was a brilliant economist with a great vision of what India could be, combined with a fine sense of what was possible politically... the liberalisation and reforms he undertook with the support of Prime Minister Narasimha Rao laid the foundations of the modern Indian economy," he told PTI.

Rajan, the 23rd Governor of the Reserve Bank of India between September 2013 and September 2016, recalled that Singh was always curious. "Most persons with his experience and achievements would hold forth their views. Instead, Dr Singh heard others out and then tried to make use of what they conveyed, including criticism. "And he was a man of great integrity, never using any of his offices for personal gain," Rajan noted. Former World Bank chief economist Kaushik Basu said Singh, admired for his sharp intellect, innate modesty, and personal integrity - qualities rarely found in politics, will be remembered as one of the greatest political leaders not only in India but also globally. Basu, who was Chief Economic Adviser (CEA) to the government in 2009-12, further said Manmohan Singh's modesty came from a deep sense of courage and self-confidence. "I have no doubt that he will go down in history as one of the great political leaders not just of India but of the world. "He was a combination of sharp intellect, innate modesty and personal integrity, which is rare in politics," the former CEA told PTI. Basu said reforms that Singh initiated in the early 1990s transformed India from a struggling developing nation to one of the world's fastest-growing economies. "The talent and creativity that we see today spilling out from India to the United States and Europe, in the fields of corporate leadership, science, research, and policymaking owe a lot to this transformation of the 90s. he noted. Working closely with Singh from 2009 to 2012, Basu said he saw an intellectual capaciousness that enabled him to grasp the big picture and simultaneously the minute details of policymaking.

"He (Singh) had little time for political intrigue. And that made all the difference for India," the former CEA said.

EAC-PM member Rakesh Mohan recalled how former prime minister Manmohan Singh used to encourage young technocratic talent to join the government and play a role in policymaking. Mohan, who was also deputy governor of the Reserve Bank of India, further said Singh was receptive to ideas given by young people.

One of his contributions to Indian policymaking was to induct a number of economic advisers at a young age, starting with Montek Singh Ahluwalia, myself, Shankar Acharya, and Arvind Virmani.

"...he was very encouraging of technocratic talent and induced them to come to the government and join," Mohan said.

Singh was a great listener and spoke very little but whenever he did, he spoke only substance, former RBI governor D Subbarao recalled his association with Singh, who died on Thursday. "I had experience with him as prime minister and as finance secretary and late as governor. What I would say about Dr Manmohan...that he was a great listener.

"He did not speak very much. But whenever he spoke, it has lots of substance," Subbarao, who was RBI governor from 2008 to

In H1 2024-25, there was an accretion of USD 23.8 billion to the foreign exchange reserves (on a BoP basis), the RBI said. (PTI)

QUOTE OF THE DAY

Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country. - John F Kennedy

Architect of India's economic reforms

n June 21, 1991, the 70-year-old Congress veteran P V Narasimha Rao took oath as the Prime Minister of a minority government amidst massive political uncertainty over its survival. The Congress had got only 232 seats as against the usual majority of 272 in the Lok Sabha elections in 1991 out of the total strength of 543. The next 34 days from June 21 to July 24, the day, P V Narasimha Rao's first budget was presented by the Finance Minister Dr Manmohan Singh, had all the elements of a high octane political and economic thriller which can be made use of by an ace director to make a top-class eco-political film. The soft-spoken Rao, the former chief minister of Andhra Pradesh who knew 17 languages, created history by pioneering the economic reforms through his first budget and the new industrial policy presented on the same day July 24. In full collaboration with the economist and finance minister Dr Manmohan Singh. Those who had the opportunity to observe the developments from close quarters in those tumultuous days, saw how resolutely, Prime Minister Rao protected his finance minister from all attacks by his senior Congress colleagues and led the senior bureaucrats to go ahead with the reforms programme despite continuous feedback from the Congress seniors that Rao was deviating from

The Rao government had the benefit of a qualified team of senior bureaucrats who worked till late night in fine-tuning the explosive new ideas of the Prime Minister and the finance minister. On D-Day, July 24, the Prime Minister was quite nervous in the morning. But Singh's 1991 budget unshackled India's economy, significantly enhancing the economic prospects for hundreds of millions of Indians. Dr Singh, often hailed as the architect of modern India's economic reforms, also championed environmental conservation and climate action during his decade-long tenure as prime minister (2004-2014). He was a brilliant economist with a great vision of what India could be, combined with a fine sense of what was possible politically... the liberalisation and reforms he undertook with the support of Prime Minister Rao laid the foundations of the modern Indian economy. Under his leadership, India launched the National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC), passed the landmark Forest Rights Act (FRA) to protect the rights of tribal communities and established the National Green Tribunal (NGT) to safeguard the environment through swift legal action.

For centuries, India's tribal communities were sidelined from decisions about their own land. The UPA-1 government under Singh flipped that script. His government passed the Forest Rights Act in 2006, handing back the control of forests to the people who lived in and protected them. Unassuming, erudite, soft-spoken and a consensus builder, Singh died at Delhi's All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) on Thursday. He was 92. The Congress leader, who steered India for 10 years from 2004 to 2014 and helped set up the country's economic framework as finance minister. Dr Singh, admired for his sharp intellect, innate modesty, and personal integrity - qualities rarely found in politics, will be remembered as one of the greatest political leaders not only in India but also globally.

Mohan Bhagwat's bold tutoring - Sign of an internal disquiet?

been altering these days. There have been reasons behind trends that have democratically overthrown incumbent governments. But there have also been chaos and skirmishes and armed rebellions in streets in some countries which ultimately vanquished ruling regimes. Bangladesh, India's neighborhood, was one among those regions that empowered its people to overthrow an elected government, which they call, a popular uprising that converted the country into a radical destination for the Islamists. What followed after the eviction of Sheikh Hasina was heart wrenching and horrendous. Minorities, especially hundreds of Hindus and Buddhists were thrashed, molested, raped and burnt alive. The situation in that country came as a convincing example for the rest of the world that intolerance of the majority can any time turn into an unpredictable violence with its gargantuan dominance on the minorities.

India's case is different. Here, the majority, the Hindus, hold a different philosophy that rests on the pillars of assimilation and acceptance. The majority in India has been extremely magnanimous when it comes to their habit of sharing space for others. But its history has been ridiculously manipulated and concealed of facts by the perpetrators, the historians who could easily mislead and misrepresent it for decades. Invasions, aggressions and the polarization of the Hindus have been consistently depositing emotional insecurity and apathy on them. Their temples and spiritual places were toppled and distorted and they still remain symbols of barbaric aggression causing indelible wounds in their minds. Obviously there had been vigor and valor. But there had also been helplessness and the vacuum it created throughout the journey of independent India was unfathomable. Their resentment was silent, and their approach was conservative and they could easily be polarized in the name of caste, and they could not activate a profound momentum against the partiality they suffered. Leaders at the time of India's independence, after slicing a radical Islamist region out of its landmass, conceived a new India, which was secular in nature and accommodated everybody including those who shamefacedly raised slogans for a particular state in the name of religion. Everybody had a space for survival in India. But Pakistan was the creation of animosity being hatched for years in the name of a religious belief and its intolerance geared up all through the dark days of freedom struggle slitting the veins of togetherness.

What remained unseen for years were the bruises of the Islamic invasion and the brutal partition of India and the horror it had on the majority. Vulnerability to the extent of distrusting a man at the neighborhood for his being the follower of a different religion was the worst. Ideologically convulsed and irritably intolerant were the beliefs of the conspirators. People representing such beliefs placed their religion beyond the glory of the nation and they strictly believed that their acrimonious behavior and if necessary, death too, tion of an inclusive nation that attracted prominent faiths from across the globe, India's ruling regimes from the beginning of its independent journey failed to demonstrably help its major chunk of population Well before India's independence, there had also been thoughts that began to sense urgency for a Hindu unity. The undercurrent of intolerance and distrust in the name of religion remained a reality and probably that was the reason which propelled a thought process for a new organization; an organization that would seek the unity of Hindus and would ultimately lead the country to its freedom. In 1925 an organization intended to organize the Hindu majority was established which later came to be known as Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS). The formation of RSS had also been the result of the ruthless killing of innocent Hindus by a Muslim mob in the Malabar region of Kerala in 1921. Though banned multiple times, the Sangh enhanced its reach and power all over the country ever since the British left its soil. Growing to the level of forming governments in India, today its eminence, prominence and dominance became unquestionable

In fact the temples DEGREE OF THOUGHT and religious places which were plucked and pillaged during the external aggression remained incontestably painful among the majority while laws and lawmaking mechanisms of the country consistently strengthened the Muslim minority from all directions, unpardonably submissive to its collective vote bank. Multiple laws get enacted phenomenally over and over again just to satiate the Muslim interests while disparagement of the majority continued to be disregarded under the regimes led by the Congress for decades. Things began to change in 2014, when Narendra Modi, a present-day incarnation of the Hindutva political ecosystem gained accolades. Ever since, there have been distinct and extraordinary approaches from the regime's side to strengthen the feelings of the majority. Since 2014, elections across the country unity of the Hindus, though the Prime Minister was visibly hesitant to go with the flow until recently. Election results to the Jammu-Kashmir assembly might have shaken his conviction. This time, in Maharashtra, Narendra Modi's "Divided we fall" call had broken the long-standing precedent of a feeble coalition with BJP an underdog. The electorate of the state blessed his party with a commendable victory. The saffron camp's concerns have been intense as Muslim unity has been visibly toppling electoral equations in various pockets. There have also been attempts to revive the fallen spiritual structures including the Ayodhya through judicial processes. The recent attempts to revive Gyanvapi, Mathura Krishna temple and the controversy erupting from Sambhal began to gain prominence mainly due to the legal interventions of individuals and agencies outside the government and the ecosystem of RSS. There has been a confusion simmering so strong ever since Mohan Bhagwat, the RSS chief came all guns blazing against such movements. His point of warning to those on the forefront of this emancipation spree was to shed such demands of revival. He critiqued them for attempting to viciously break the amiability among religions by disruptively searching for buried debris of temples under mosques. He stretched his hands of friendship ideally by visiting mosques and conversing with Muslim clergymen. But his attempts seemed to have not gone well among the Sangh Parivar. This time his suggestion was to forget and forgive even though moments of horrors and bloodshed from the past are bound to haunt the majority. Quite unusually, Bhagwat's statements brought bitter resentments among sages. Some of whom publicly reprimanded him for confusing people. Jagadguru Ramabhadracharya slammed the RSS Chief for his mandir-masjid remarks. As the year draws to a close, there seems to be an emotional wrestling match evolving between the Sangh and the sages. Does the BJP subscribe to the views of Mohan Bhagwat, or will it go ahead with its unity slogans "batoge to katoge" and "ek hai to safe hai"? Year 2025 is the centenary of the RSS. We need to wait until next year to know how the Sangh Parivar is going to perceive the blistering remarks of its chief. (The author and freelance journalist who can be reached at mrlalu@30gmail.com)

Manmohan Singh, India's former Prime Minister and economic liberalization, passed away at the age of 92. His demise marks the end of an era, leaving behind an indelible legacy of economic transformation, political astuteness, and unparalleled statesmanship. A luminary of modern India, Dr. Singh's contributions spanned over five decades, encompassing roles as an economist, reformer, and leader who profoundly influenced the trajectory of the na-

On December 26, the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), Delhi, announced his passing. Dr. Singh, who had been in frail health for months, succumbed to age-related complications after losing consciousness at his residence earlier that evening. Despite resuscitative measures, he was declared dead at 9:51 PM. His death has left the nation in mourning, with tributes pouring in from political leaders, intellectuals, and citizens across the country.

Dr. Singh's life was a testament to the transformative power of vision and perseverance. Born in 1932, his academic journey began at Panjab University and culminated at Oxford University, where he earned a D.Phil in Economics. An illustrious career in academia and bureaucracy followed, with pivotal roles such as Chief Economic Advisor, Governor of the Reserve Bank of India, and Secretary-General of the South Commission in Geneva. His intellectual rigor and economic expertise laid the foundation for his most significant contribution to India's history—the economic reforms of

The Architect of Economic Liberalization

As Finance Minister in Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao's government, Dr. Singh steered India out of an economic abyss. Faced with a severe balance-of-payments crisis, he dismantled the labyrinthine "Control Raj" of permits and licenses, ushering in a new era of economic liberalization. His reforms reduced bureaucratic hurdles, introduced competition, and opened India's doors to foreign investments and global trade. These changes not only stabilized the economy but also set the stage for unprecedented

Under Dr. Singh's stewardship, India transitioned from the "Hindu rate of growth" of 3.5% annually to the architect of the nation's a robust growth rate exceeding 7%. This economic renaissance spurred technological advancements, industrialization, and urbanization, lifting millions out of poverty. The reforms also democratized access to consumer goods, making automobiles, electronics, and improved dietary options available to the burgeoning middle class and lower-income

A Statesman of Unmatched

As Prime Minister from 2004 to 2014, Dr. Singh led the Congressled United Progressive Alliance (UPA) government with humility and quiet determination. While Sonia Gandhi managed party dynamics and Pranab Mukherjee handled day-to-day governance, Dr. Singh focused on overarching policy frameworks. His leadership style, marked by restraint and intellect, stood in stark contrast to the theatrics often associated with Indian politics.

One of Dr. Singh's crowning achievements was the Indo-US Civil Nuclear Agreement, which ended India's decades-long nuclear isolation. Despite vehement opposition from his Leftist allies, he demonstrated remarkable courage and conviction, prioritizing the nation's strategic interests. The deal not only bolstered India's energy security but also elevated its status as a responsible nuclear power on the global stage.

Dr. Singh's tenure was also marked by deft diplomacy. He skillfully navigated India's relationships with neighboring countries and major global powers, turning international challenges into opportunities. Following the 2008 Mumbai terror attacks, he galvanized global support against Pakistan's statesponsored terrorism, isolating Islamabad on the world stage without resorting to military conflict.

The Undervalued Communica-

Despite his monumental achievements, Dr. Singh often struggled to communicate his successes to the masses. His understated demeanor and aversion to self-promotion allowed political rivals to undermine his legacy. Critics accused him of being overly reticent and out of touch with the electorate, failing to effectively counter populist narratives. Yet, history has a way of separating the ephemeral from the enduring, and Dr. Singh's contributions are increasingly recognized as transformative milestones in India's development

A Farewell to a Visionary

Murmu hailed him as "a visionary statesman and one of the greatest sons of Bharat," while Prime Minister Narendra Modi acknowledged his wisdom, humility, and farreaching contributions. Congress leaders, including Mallikarjun Kharge and Rahul Gandhi, lauded his integrity, honesty, and unwavering commitment to the nation.

As the nation bids farewell to this iconic leader, it is essential to reflect on the breadth of his legacy. Dr. Singh's vision extended beyond immediate economic gains: he sought to empower every Indian through opportunities created by an open and dynamic economy. His reforms laid the foundation for India's ascent as a global power, while his humility and ethical leadership set a benchmark for public service.

Remembering the Good Doc-

Dr. Singh's journey from a small village in undivided Punjab to the highest echelons of power is a source of inspiration. His life exemplifies the transformative power of education, perseverance, and a steadfast commitment to public welfare. As the world remembers him, the words he spoke in his final press conference as Prime Minister resonate profoundly: "History will be kind to me.

Dr Manmohan Singh: A silent reformer

By: Himangshu Ranjan Bhuyan

he story of Dr. Manmohan Singh is one of quiet perseverance, unwavering integrity, and transformative leadership. Throughout his life, he exemplified a unique blend of intellectual brilliance and humility, leaving an indelible mark on India's economic and political landscape. His passing marks the end of an era, but his legacy as a silent reformer endures, offering valuable lessons for generations to come.

Born in the modest village of Gah, now in Pakistan, on September 26, 1932, Dr. Singh experienced the upheavals of Partition firsthand. This early exposure to loss and displacement forged a resilience that defined his character. His academic journey, which took him from Puniab University to the University of Cambridge and later to Oxford, was a testament to his exceptional intellect. Dr. Singh's scholarly pursuits were rooted in economics, a field where he would later make groundbreaking contributions as a policvmaker.

Dr. Singh first came to national prominence during the economic crisis of 1991, when India faced a balance of payments crisis that threatened its financial stability. As Finance Minister under Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao, Dr. Singh was entrusted with the monumental task of rescuing the economy. In what can only be described as a watershed moment, he introduced a series of economic liberalization measures that dismantled decades of protectionism. These reforms opened India's doors to global trade and investment, ushering in a period of unprecedented economic growth. His famous assertion in Parliament—"No power on earth can stop an idea whose time has come"-captured the urgency and inevitability of the changes he championed.

The liberalization of the Indian economy under Dr. Singh's stewardship marked a departure from the License Raj, a system that had stifled entrepreneurship and innovation. By eliminating bureaucratic hurdles, encouraging foreign investment, and reducing trade barriers, he laid the foundation for India's transformation into a global economic powerhouse. These reforms were not without controversy; critics argued that they widened income disparities and left some sections of society behind. Yet, Dr. Singh's vision was clear—economic growth was essential for lifting millions out of poverty and securing India's place on the global stage.

In 2004, Dr. Singh assumed the role of Prime Minister, leading a coalition government that required delicate balancing acts to maintain stability. His tenure was characterized by policies aimed at inclusive growth, reflecting his deep concern for the underprivileged. Landmark initiatives such as the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA) and the Right to Information Act empowered millions of Indians, particularly in rural areas. These policies underscored his belief that economic progress must translate into tangible benefits for the marginalized.

Dr. Singh's approach to governance was rooted in consensus-building and quiet diplomacy. In stark contrast to the often confrontational style of contemporary politics, he relied on dialogue and mutual respect to navigate the complexities of coalition politics. His ability to maintain composure under pressure earned him respect across the political spectrum. This was particularly evident in his handling of the Indo-U.S. Civil Nuclear Agreement, a landmark deal that not only strengthened India's energy security but also cemented its position as a responsible policy paralysis during his second term tarnished the public perception of his government. Critics accused him of being overly reticent and failing to assert himself against vested interests within his coalition. Yet, even his harshest detractors acknowledged his personal integrity. Dr. Singh's reputation as a leader who placed national interest above all else remained intact, a rarity in an era of increasing political opportunism.

Despite his achievements, Dr. Singh's tenure as Prime Minister was not without challenges. Allegations of corruption and

One of Dr. Singh's most defining qualities was his humility. He was a leader who never sought the spotlight, preferring instead to let his work speak for itself. This humility extended to his interactions with colleagues, opponents, and the public. He often described himself as an "accidental politician," a phrase that belied his profound understanding of governance and policy. For Dr. Singh, leadership was not about rhetoric or personal aggrandizement; it was about service to the nation. Dr. Singh's legacy is multifaceted. As an economist, he redefined India's economic trajectory, proving that bold reforms could coexist with social responsibility. As a statesman, he demonstrated the power of quiet diplomacy, earning the respect of global leaders. As a Prime Minister, he prioritized the welfare of ordinary citizens, ensuring that the benefits of growth reached the most vulnerable sections of society. But perhaps his greatest contribution was his unvavering commitment to ethical gover-

In an age of hyper-partisanship and political grandstanding, Dr. Singh's measured approach to leadership stands out as a beacon of hope. He showed that effective governance does not require theatrics but rather a deep understanding of issues, a clear vision, and a steadfast commitment to the greater good. His calm demeanor and thoughtful decision-making were a welcome antidote to the often chaotic nature of Indian politics.

Dr. Singh's life was a journey of service, guided by principles of honesty, compassion, and intellectual rigor. His contributions to India's growth and development are immense, but his legacy extends beyond policies and reforms. He leaves behind an example of leadership that is as relevant today as it was during his time in office. At a time when the world faces complex challenges, from economic inequality to climate change, the values Dr. Singh espoused—integrity, humility, and a focus on long-term solutions—offer invaluable lessons.

As India mourns the loss of one of its most distinguished leaders, it is also an opportunity to reflect on the principles that defined his life. Dr. Singh's journey from a small village in Punjab to the highest echelons of power is a testament to the transformative power of education, perseverance, and a commitment to excellence. His story is a reminder that true leadership lies not in words but in deeds, not in power but in purpose.

Dr. Manmohan Singh was more than a reformer; he was a visionary who shaped the destiny of a nation with quiet determination and unshakeable resolve. His legacy will continue to inspire future generations, reminding them that even in the most challenging of times, progress is possible when guided by integrity and a clear vision. As we bid farewell to this extraordinary leader, we carry forward his dream of a more prosperous, equitable, and compassionate India. # Ukraine's military intelligence says N Korean troops suffering heavy battlefield losses troops are suffering heavy losses in the fighting in Russia's Kursk region and facing logistical difficulties as a result of Ukrainian attacks, Ukraine's military intelligence has

The intelligence agency, known under its acronym GUR, on Thursday said Ukrainian strikes near Novoivanovka inflicted heavy casualties on North Korean units. It said North Korean troops also faced supply issues and even shortages of drinking water.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said earlier this week that 3,000 North Korean troops have been killed and wounded in the fighting in the Kursk region. It marked the first significant estimate by Ukraine of North Korean casualties several weeks after Kviv announced that North Korea had sent 10,000 to 12,000 troops to Russia to help it in the almost 3-year war.

The casualty disclosure came as the Biden administration was pressing to send as much military aid as possible to Ukraine before President-elect Donald Trump takes over in January.

Ukrainian forces launched an incursion into the Kursk region in August, dealing a significant blow to Russia's prestige and forcing it to deploy some of its troops from eastern Ukraine, where they were pressing a slow-moving offensive.

As part of the daily barrage, Russian forces also struck a central market in Nikopol in the Dnipropetrovsk region with a drone, wounding eight people, according to local authorities.

Russian President Vladimir Putin threatened Thursday that Russia could again hit Ukraine with the new Oreshnik hypersonic ballistic missile that was first used in a Nov 21 strike on the Ukrainian city of Dnipro.

Speaking to reporters, Putin said Russia has just a few Oreshnik missiles, but added that it wouldn't hesitate to use them on Ukraine.

We aren't in a rush to use them, because those are powerful weapons intended for certain tasks. he said. But we wouldn't exclude their use today or tomorrow if necessary. Putin said Russia has launched serial production of the new weapon and reaffirmed a plan to deploy some of Oreshnik missiles to Russia's neighbor and ally Belarus. Belarus' authoritarian President Alexander Lukashenko told reporters Thursday that his country could host 10 or more.

SEOUL, Dec 27: South Korea's opposition-controlled National Assembly voted Friday to impeach acting President Han Duck-soo despite vehement protests by governing party lawmakers, further deepening the country's political crisis set off by President Yoon Suk Yeol's stunning imposition of martial law and ensuing impeachment. Han's impeachment means he will be stripped of the powers and duties of the president until the Constitutional Court decides whether to dismiss or reinstate him. The court is already reviewing whether to uphold Yoon's earlier impeachment. The impeachments of the country's top two officials worsen its political turmoil, deepen its economic uncertainty and hurt its international image.

The single-chamber National Assembly passed Han's impeachment motion with a 192-0 vote. Lawmakers with the governing People Power Party boycotted the vote and gathered around the podium where assembly Speaker Woo Won Shik was seated and shouted that the vote was invalid and demanded Woo's resignation. No violence or injuries were reported.

The PPP lawmakers protested after Woo called for a vote on Han's impeachment motion after announcing its passage required a simple majority in the 300-memer assembly, not a two-thirds majority as claimed by the PPP. Most South Korean officials can be impeached by the National Assembly with a simple majority vote, but a president's impeachment needs the support of two-thirds. There are no specific laws on the impeachment of an acting president. Han's powers will be officially suspended when copies of his impeachment document are delivered to him and the Constitutional Court. The deputy prime minister and finance minister, Choi Sang-mok, will take over. Han, who was appointed prime minister by Yoon, became acting president after Yoon, a conservative, was impeached by the National Assembly about two weeks ago over his short-lived Dec. 3 imposition of martial law. Han quickly clashed with the main liberal opposition Democratic Party as he pushed back against opposition-led efforts to fill three vacant seats on the Constitutional Court, establish an independent investigation into Yoon's martial law decree and legislate pro-farmer bills.

At the heart of the fighting is the Democratic Party's demand that Han approve the assembly's nominations of three new Constitutional Court justices to restore its full nine-member bench ahead of its ruling on Yoon's impeachment. That's a politically sensitive issue because a court decision to dismiss Yoon as president needs support from at least six justices, and adding more justices will likely increase the prospects for Yoon's ouster. Yoon's political allies in the governing People Power Party oppose the appointment of the three justices, saying Han shouldn't exercise the presidential authority to make the appointments while Yoon has yet to be formally re-

UK honours legacy of India's 'reluctant prime minister' Manmohan Singh

LONDON, Dec 27: India's "reluctant prime minister" and the "architect of economic reforms" is how sections of the UK media have been honouring the legacy of Dr Manmohan Singh, the former prime minister who passed away aged 92 in New Delhi on Thursday.

British High Commissioner to India Lindy Cameron took to social media to pay tribute to "a great Prime Minister, Finance Minister and global statesman who advanced India's interests through bold economic reforms and played a key role in putting India in its rightful place on the world stage and stabilising the global economy after the financial crisis". "The UK will always be proud of his invaluable partnership with three UK Prime Ministers, and proud of him as an alumnus of two of our great universities. My thoughts and wishes are with his family and the people of India," she said.

Singh's tenure overlapped with Labour prime ministers Tony Blair and Gordon Brown and Conservative David Cameron, who later wrote in his memoir that he "got on well" with this "saintly man" who was robust on the threats India faced. "On a later visit he told me that another terrorist attack like that in Mumbai in July 2011, and India would have to take military action against Pakistan," notes the former UK PM in 'For the Record', published in 2019. Manoj Ladwa, founder and chairman of

US 2024: Trump makes dramatic return to presidency India-US relationship remains 'in a very strong place'

NEW YORK, Dec 27: It was a dramatic year for the US in which President Joe Biden abandoned his reelection bid after his poor performance in a nationally televised debate against Republican candidate Donald Trump, a convicted felon who survived two assassination attempts during a bitter cam-

Trump, 78, defeated Indian-origin Kamala Harris. His return to the White House after a gap of four years shattered the dreams of the Democratic Party and millions of her supporters who hoped to see the first woman President.

Trump is the first president after Grover Cleveland who was 132 years ago evicted from the White House and return to it again four vears later. As the Biden administration prepares to exit the White House, the India-US relationship is "in a very strong place" – according to a Biden administration official and observers expect that bilateral ties will continue to receive bipartisan support under the incoming Trump presidency. But at the end of 2024, new challenges are casting their shadow over these relations -there is an ongoing indictment related to an alleged assassination bid on a Sikh separatist, another involving Indian billionaire Gautam Adani, and Trump's threat to impose high tariffs on Indian imports.

Months before the elections in the world's oldest democracy, the electorate in the world's largest democracy voted for Prime Minister Narendra Modi for a historic third term. Modi congratulated his "friend" Trump - the oldest person in US history to be elected president - on his "historic" victory and said he looks forward to renewing their collaboration to further strengthen India-US Comprehensive Global and Strategic Partnership. His relations with both President Biden and Trump have been strong. Between June 2023 and September 2024, both Modi and Biden hosted each other in their countries, visits that underscored the strong trajectory of bilateral relations.

In June 2023, Biden hosted Modi for a State Visit in Washington and then travelled to New Delhi in September for the G-20 Summit.

In June 2024, the two leaders met in Italy on the sidelines of the G7 Summit. Three months later, Modi travelled to the US for the 4th Quad Leaders' Summit held at Biden's home in Wilmington, Delaware.

After a bilateral meeting on the margins of the summit, Biden said the "US' partnership with India is stronger, closer, and more dynamic than any time in history." Later, a joint statement said the India-US partnership is "decisively delivering on an ambitious agenda that serves the global good," calling it the "defining partnership of the 21st century." However, the relationship was not without hiccups.

If the year 2023 had ended on a sombre note with the Biden administration charging Indian national Nikhil Gupta in a foiled plot to assassinate Sikh separatist Gurpatwant Singh Pannun on American soil, in October 2024, former Indian government employee Vikash

Yadav was charged by US authorities for his alleged role in the plot. In November, the US Securities and Exchange Commission charged billionaire Gautam Adani and his nephew Sagar Adani, along with Cyril Cabanes, an executive of Azure Power Global Ltd., in connection with an alleged USD 250 million bribery scheme.

In a parallel action, the US Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York unsealed criminal charges against Gautam and Sagar Adani and others. The criminal indictment also charged Vneet S Jaain, Ranjit Gupta, Rupesh Agarwal, Cyril Cabanes, Saurabh Agarwal and Deepak Malhotra.

India said it is a "legal matter involving private firms and individuals and the US Department of Justice...there are established procedures and legal avenues in such cases" that would be followed.

It remains to be seen how the cases pan out during the incoming administration of Trump, who has picked several Indian-Americans for key positions. Vivek Ramaswamy for the Department of Tulsi Gabbard as Director of National Intelligence, Kash Patel as Director of the FBI, Harmeet K Dhillon as Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, Jay Bhattacharya as Director of National Institutes of Health and Sriram Krishnan as Senior policy advisor on Artificial Intelligence are among the Indian-Americans expected to play key roles in Trump 2.0 administration.

Government Efficiency (DOGE),

On the indictments, a senior administration official said the US-India relationship is "increasingly complex, increasingly diverse and increasingly deep. It is the case that invariably, we will reach occasions of challenges on both sides, and the key is how we deal with those."

"I can just assure you that we've had the deepest possible appropriate consultation between the two sides, and I'm confident that we will be able to weather this appropriately," the official added.

As Trump prepares to return to the White House for his second term, his recent rhetoric to impose reciprocal tariffs in retaliation for the "high tariff" imposed by New Delhi on the import of certain American products has garnered much attention

The outgoing Biden administration has said it expects that the India-US relationship will continue to remain strong even after the handover in January.

"We are quite confident that we'll be handing the bilateral relationship off to the incoming Trump team at its strongest possible apex, with key support from stakeholders in the industry, in technology, in finance and defence," said Kurt Campbell, Deputy Secretary of State. Principal Deputy National Security Advisor Jon Finer has said that "to a large degree, there has been bipartisan consensus on the importance of this relationship". "Over the last two decades, different administrations in Washington and New Delhi have helped strengthen our cooperation. While no relationship is without challenges, we believe that we are leaving this partnership in a very strong place as we prepare to pass the baton to the incoming team." (PTI)

AGARTALA, Dec 27: The 43rd Agartala Book Fair will be held from January 2 to 14, 2025 but Bangladesh publishers or booksellers will not participate in the event, an official said on Friday.

Tripura Chief Minister Manik Saha will inaugurate the 12-day-long book fair in West Tripura's Badharghat fair ground on January

"The lottery for distribution of stalls at the book fair is scheduled to take place on Friday. Till now, no Bangladeshi publishing house or bookseller has submitted any application for setting up stalls at the book fair venue," Director of Information and Cultural Affairs (ICA), Bimbisar Bhattacharjee told PTI.

However, he said publishers from Kolkata, Guwahati and Delhi will participate in this year's book fair apart from local publishing

President of Tripura Publishers' Guild (TPG), Subabrata Deb said, "Given the situation in Bangladesh after the ouster of the Sheikh Hasina, no publication house or bookseller seems to be brave enough to join the book fair at Agartala. We keep contact with publication houses of Bangladesh but they are not in a position to join the book fair this time. As book lovers, we will miss the essence of Bangladeshi publications.

"This will be the first time in many years that Bangladeshi publishers are not participating in the book fair," Deb added.

He hailed the state government's decision to advance the book fair from February-March to January this year.

"Normally Agartala book fair used to be held in February or March but this time it has been advanced to the first week of January. We oppose organising book fair in February and March because of board examinations. I hope this time, students will get a fair chance to visit the book fair due to advancement in the book fair schedule", he said.

Eminent writer Nandita Roy said, "It is natural that Bangladesh publishers are most unlikely to participate in the Agartala book fair because of their internal problem. Besides, visa problem is also there. I heard that they are also not going to join the Kolkata book fair. We will miss literary masterpieces of Bangladeshi publishing houses as well as research based books which have good demand in Tripura. Last year, they had joined the book fair". (PTI)

NEW DELHI, Dec 27: Endless incarceration without trial in near future falls foul of Article 21 of the Constitution, the Delhi High Court said recently and granted bail to a man held in a cheating case in 2022.

Justice Amit Mahajan said if an accused was suffering a prolonged incarceration without a timely trial in the case, courts would ordinarily be obligated to release them on bail.

Article 21 of the Indian Constitution deals with the right of life and personal liberty. In the case at hand, the judge said charges were yet to be framed, the prosecution had sought repeated adjournments to file a supplementary chargesheet and it had been a year since the accused's last bail plea was dismissed.

"The applicant has spent more than two years in custody. There is no likelihood of the trial being completed in near future. In such circumstances, incarceration of the applicant for an endless period on account of non-examination of witnesses falls foul of Article 21 of the Constitution of India," the court said on December

NEW DELHI, Dec 27: The Supreme Court on Friday expressed concern over the condition of farmer leader Jagjit Singh Dallewal, who is on an indefinite hunger strike, and directed the Punjab government to ensure he was given medical

A vacation bench of Justices Surya Kant and Sudhanshu Dhulia issued a notice to the Punjab government on a contempt petition against its chief secretary and the director general of police (DGP) for non-compliance of an order directing medical aid to Dallewal.

"If there is a law and order situation, you have to deal with it with iron hands. Somebody's life is at stake. You need to take it seriously. Medical aid has to be given and the impression is that you are not following it," the bench said.

The apex court directed the state go to file a compliance report by December 28, when it would again hear the matter and ordered the Punjab chief secretary and the DGP to virtually remain present during the hearing.

During the hearing, Punjab advocate general Gurminder Singh submitted a delegation of eight cabinet ministers along with the Puniab DGP visited the protest site to convince Dallewal to move to a hospital but the farmers resisted it.

"We have provided everything on site. If there is physical jostling, we cannot take that risk," he added. The bench however responded, "We have serious doubts about those farmers, those who are not conscious and aware and concerned about his life.

Singh said the state government was "very

When the bench wondered if the Centre could offer assistance to the state government, solicitor general Tushar Mehta said its interference might lead to complications.

"Few people cannot keep him (Dallewal) hostage. One man's life is in danger. The state government can take measures," said Mehta.

The Punjab AG informed the bench when the ministers' delegation went to meet Dallewal on December 24, he gave a letter addressed to the Prime Minister. "He says, if some dialogue is opened up, only then he is willing to cooperate with medical assistance," Singh said. Mehta said Dallewal's admission in a hospital should be the top priority. Dallewal has been on an indefinite fast at the

On December 20, the apex court left it to the Punjab government officials and doctors to decide on the hospitalisation of Dallewal. The court had said 70-year-old Dallewal could be moved to the makeshift hospital setup within 700 metre of the protest site at Khanauri border between Punjab and Haryana.

The bench on December 19 referred to civil rights activist Irom Sharmila continuing her protest for more than a decade under medical supervision and asked the Punjab government to convince Dallewal for a health examination.

It had pulled up the state for not running medical tests on Dallewal. (PTI)

UP: Police outpost to be built opposite Shahi Jama Masjid in Sambhal, measurement begins

SAMBHAL (UP), Dec 27: Following the violence that erupted in Sambhal on November 24, the Uttar Pradesh Police is taking measures to enhance security and as part of these efforts, construction of a new police outpost is set to commence in the field opposite Shahi Iam: Masjid, officials said Friday.

A survey of the area has already been conducted, and construction will begin soon at the site, located in the Kot Garvi neighbourhood of the city, they said.

"Measurements for the new outpost have been completed," Additional Superintendent of Police Shrish Chandra said. However, he declined to reveal the proposed name of the outpost at

"The outpost is being established to bolster security in the region. Once completed, it will be manned round-the-clock to ensure a continuous police presence," the officer said. Four people were killed and several others, including security personnel, were injured in violence that broke out in the Kot Garvi area on November 24 when some locals clashed with police during a courtordered survey of the Shahi Jama Masjid over a petition that claimed a Harihar temple once existed at the site. # Jammu's tourism can grow by encouraging pilgrims to visit other attractions: Omar Abdullah

'This facility should host school events, allowing students to hone their skills

mir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah had said that encouraging pilgrims of Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine to explore other attractions in Jammu could result in an additional 15 lakh tourists in those places.

Abdullah highlighted the nearcompletion of a long-pending project to create a lake in Jammu describing it as a pivotal step in establishing the region as a significant destination on the tourism map. "If we can encourage even 15 percent of the pilgrims visiting Mata Vaishno Devi to explore other attractions in Jammu, we could see an influx of 15 lakh tourists — a figure comparable to Kashmir's peak tourism years," he said.

The chief minister shared his vision of transforming Jammu into a distinct tourist destination while inaugurating the open-air amphitheatre at Bagh-e-Bahu on Thursday night.

Highlighting Jammu's potential, Abdullah underlined the importance of leveraging the region's prominent pilgrimage sites, particularly the Shri Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine, which draws over a crore visitors annually. He praised the development of Bagh-e-Bahu, recalling its transformation from a modest site to a tourism hub with water fountains, an aquarium and a sound and light show. "I have seen Bagh-e-Bahu evolve from a modest site into a hub featuring water fountains, an aquarium, and a sound and light show. Today, it forms a key part of this amphitheatre, which adds a new dimension to Jammu's cultural and tourism landscape," he said.

He urged the concerned departments to maximize the amphitheatre's potential advocating for its use as a platform for various activities.

'This facility should host school events, allowing students to hone their skills and showcase their talent. It's vital that this amphitheatre is not left underutilised," he added.

Abdullah called for regular events at the amphitheatre and said that he hopes to see a well-publicized calendar of events involving private organizations and schools, especially those lacking facilities. He also reiterated the importance of giving Jammu a distinct identity in tourism underscoring ongoing projects like the creation of a lake, which is nearing completion. "Jammu will soon have its own lake — a milestone that will significantly boost tourism. Projects like this are crucial to firmly establish Jammu on the tourism map," he said. Acknowledging the limitations of seasonal use, the chief minister expressed optimism about using the amphitheatre for at least 4-5 months each vear. He added that his residence across the river gives him a direct view of the amphitheatre's activities. "From my balcony, I can hear the soothing sounds of the river and occasionally enjoy the sound and light show," he said

The chief minister said that he looks forward to hearing the vibrant buzz of activities from the amphitheatre as a regular feature, urging the departments to ensure continuous engagement and wide publicity. (PTI)

When PM Singh sought 'primer' on Department of Atomic Energy from Kakodkar

Soon, he had a detailed note running into 15-20 pages ready for the prime minister.

"Dr Singh had an eye for details. He read the primer for an hour and a half, with me sitting beside him, understanding the nuances involved in this strategic department. At the prime minister's level, you do not expect this," Kakodkar said.

The Department of Atomic Energy reports directly to the Prime Minister's Office. Kakodkar served as DAE secretary and chairman of the AEC from 2000 to 2009.

It was under Singh that the historic Indo-US nuclear deal was signed in October 2008, paving the way for strategic cooperation not only with the US but also other developed countries in areas of nuclear energy, space and defence research.

There was a section within the government that wanted to expedite the nuclear deal citing economic benefits, Kakodkar said.

"He was an economist who was well aware of the economic benefits after the Indo-US nuclear deal. But Dr Singh ensured that India goes ahead with the deal only after securing its strategic interests. He was very firm on that," he said.

One of the hallmarks of the Indo-US nuclear deal was that not all atomic reactors were placed under the safeguards of the Inter(IAEA), ensuring that India did not have to shelve its nuclear weapons programme

When the construction of the country's Prototype Fast Breeder Reactor was to start, the DAE invited Singh for its launch at Kalpakkam. Singh honoured the national Atomic Energy Agency request, Kakodkar recalled. (PTI)

J-K: Shutdown in Katra against ropeway project enters third day, more people join hunger strike

REASI/JAMMU, Dec 27: The shutdown in Katra against the proposed Vaishno Devi ropeway project entered its third day on Friday, with more people sitting on the hunger strike to demand the release of those detained during earlier demonstrations.

The Shri Mata Vaishno Devi Sangharsh Samiti called for a 72-hour shutdown, which began on Wednesday. It announced that all activities in Jammu and Kashmir's Katra would remain suspended during the bandh. Women and children have now joined the six protesters who began a hunger strike on Wednesday night, demanding the release of 18 Samiti members detained during a protest march against the project earlier that day. Last month, the Shri Mata Vaishno Devi

'ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF SOLITUDE' STARS ON EMBODYING NOVEL'S CHARACTERS: A MAGICAL AND SURREAL EXPERIENCE

NEW DELHI, Dec 27: Walking on the massive Netflix sets of "One Hundred Years of Solitude" felt like she had stumbled into a parallel universe, says actor Susana Morales, who plays young Ursula Iguaran in the streamer's ambitious adaptation of Garbriel Garcia Marquez's 1967 literary classic.

Morales stars alongside Vina Machado and Marco Gonzales, who play Pilar Ternera and young Jose Arcadio Buendia, respectively, in the eight-episode Spanish series. whose first part is currently streaming on

The actor said she does not have the right words to describe how it felt to be acting in a story that has been such an integral part of every Colombian's life.

"It was just (like) living in a different world. Each part of the art, costumes and everything, it felt like a complete universe. It was like a parallel universe. Sometimes, it would click in our heads and we would be, 'I don't understand why I'm walking around right now'," Morales told PTI in an interview. "Well, I feel like it was a playroom for grownups and such beauty to just discover each set," Gonzales added.

As young Ursula Iguaran and Jose Arcadio Buendia, the two actors play the central couple who set out to find a new land at the beginning of the book and establish the fictional town of Macondo where Marquez's multi-generational saga takes place. Machado, who is such a big fan of Marquez that she can recite pages of the book from memory and has read it seven times, said she just felt lucky to be part of the experience. "Sometimes, I would come to the sets and go: 'Oh my god, I am living on the pages of the book'. We are so happy and honoured," the actor said.

"I can phrase it in my mind all the time. Actually, when we were watching the first episode, I was saying the lines because I am like that. I am by the book. I'm very structured in my work.... That's such a magical oeuvre, such a magical book that when you have these little things and you just let it flow into your imagination," she added.

As Pilar Ternera, Machado plays a character whose fate is tied closely to the lead Buendias. She comes to Macondo to escape the man who raped her. Pilar can predict the future with the help of cards.

For decades, Marquez's novel was considered unfilmable with its century-spanning sweep, multiple characters and how the Nobel laureate intricately wove elements of magic realism with Colombian history, politics and religion.

One of the most ambitious and expensive productions in Latin American history, it took Netflix six years to translate the book to the screen. The 16-episode series, divided in two parts, was shot in Colombia with the support of the author's family.

Machado believes it was the right time for the book to be adapted for screen as they had the ability, technology, writers and actors to recreate the grandeur as well as the "little things" that make the book great.

'This was the right moment to do it and do it right," she said about Marquez's most celebrated creation that has fans in every corner of the world.

Morales said the series, which has received great reviews internationally, could come together beautifully because of the hard work and respect that every department showed to the original work.

"Our biggest effort was to be really true to the story," she said, adding that everyone worked on the series with a sense of responsibility. Gonzales admitted that the adaptation was a big challenge for those involved. "I feel like when something is impossible, its just sparks (something in us) as humans. And it's a challenge that we give our all because you cannot pick and choose what you

The actor read the book when he was 18 and re-read it again before realising that it will do," he added.

was important to "let it go".

"Because if not, you just start recreating all these scenarios and it's fine to do it but it can take away the joy of the moment in that particular thing. I rather be there (on the sets) and enjoy and not speculate about all the things that it might be," he

Morales found it easy to rely on the script and the book but also to the people around her as the story takes into account "the way we are in Colombia, Latin America and the way we live in our body"

"I think all the characters surround our daily life too," she added.

Gonzales hopes that the attention that the series is receiving will, hopefully, shine a light on Colombian talent.

"Everything is built by small steps, so if we can be part of small steps for the industry to put their eyes on Colombia, to believe in our talent, and in our capacity, I just feel happy to open the door." (PTI)

Deepti stars with all-round show as India whitewash West Indies 3-0

VADODARA, Dec 27: Senior off-spinner Deepti Sharma did the star turn with career-best figures of 6/31 before doing her bit with the bat as India completed a 3-0 whitewash of the West Indies with a five-wicket victory in the final Women's ODI here on Friday.

Having bowled out West Indies for 162 after Deepti's superlative performance and pacer Renuka Singh's (4/29) excellent show with the new ball, India recovered after a top-order wobble to reach the target of 163 in 28.2 overs.

Inter-District Athletics Competition begins in Morigaon

HT Correspondent

MORIGAON, Dec 27: The 46th Inter-District Athletics Championships, organised by the Assam Athletics Association in collaboration with the Morigaon District Sports Association and the Morigaon District Administration, commenced on Friday at Khirud Barua Stadium, Morigaon. The tournament has attracted over 1,500 athletes from various districts of Assam.

Competitions in multiple categories for boys and girls under 14, 16, 18, and 20, as well as for men and women, began at 6 am. In the afternoon, the flag of the Assam Athletics Association was hoisted by its president and Minister Jayanta Malla Barua, while the flag of the Morigaon District Sports Association was hoisted by its President and Morigaon MLA Ramakant Deuri.

Following the flag ceremony, a Kuch Kawaz greeting event featured athletes from different districts. The tournament was inaugurated by senior journalist Pratap Hazarika, and the memorial book Kridangan, edited by Dr. Achyut Kumar Das, was launched by Sports Minister Nandita Garlosa. NEW DELHI, Dec 27: Disillusioned players declined national duty and their governing body grappled with infighting as Indian tennis struggled to stay afloat in a largely disappointing 2024. The All India Tennis Association (AITA) and the players being at loggerheads was not a new development. But the striking part was the lack of transparency in decision-making and nearly non-existent effort to address the concerns of the players. Result was that the game plunged to new depths.

AITA President Anil Jain, who was accused of using his position for personal gains, avoided facing a no-confidence motion from the state associations only after he agreed to step aside. Towards the end of a forgettable year, a new team of administrators won the elections, promising to change Indian tennis but a writ petition filed by two former players did not allow their declared reform process to begin.

There were accusations that the elections were held in violation of the Sports Code. The matter will not be heard before March 25, putting on hold the much-needed revamp of the system. In a nutshell, everything that could have gone wrong, went wrong for Indian tennis in

Yuki Bhambri refused to play for India in a Davis Cup tie against Sweden in September without communicating any reasons. But it was made clear by federation sources that his withdrawal was in response to being left out of the Paris Olympics where Rohan Bopanna, being a top-10 player, preferred N Sriram Balaji as his doubles part-

The same Bhambri had travelled to Islamabad, Pakistan despite security concerns for a Davis Cup engagement in January-February an with some counselling from the administrators, he might have been able to let go of his misgivings. But the AITA could not give a convincing reply to Bhambri either on why his name was not sent for inclusion in Target Olympic Podium Scheme or the role Bopanna had in making decision for Paris.

While Bhambri was disillusioned, India's top singles player Sumit Nagal's decision to pull out of ties against both Pakistan and Sweden was a bit baf-

Captain Rohit Rajpal had even agreed to Nagal's demand for a remuneration amount of USD 50,000 for annual Davis Cup duty but the Jhajjar player cited a back strain to pull out of the Sweden tie and also withdrew from an ATP Tour event the following week.

AITA went public with Nagal's demands for money after India were thrashed 0-4 by a beatable Sweden. This once again triggered a war of words between AITA and Nagal.

Amid this drama, Sasikumar Mukund, the second-best singles player in India, was not even picked for the tie because a ban was imposed on him for his earlier refusal to travel to Pakistan owing to security fears and other disciplinary violations. All these issues should have been handled in a better way. On court, India did not enjoy much success. The 44year-old Bopanna won the Australian Open men's doubles title with Matthew Ebden, the high point of a productive partnership that drew to a close in November. But singles success was very limited.

After a decent first half in which Nagal touched a careerhigh rank of 68, he began to fizzle out in the second half of the season.Such was his struggle that in his last 12 tournaments, Nagal has managed to win only two matches -- one at Kitzbuhel Challenger in July and one at Basel in October. # India collapse after Jaiswal's terrible run-out

MELBOURNE, Dec 27: A familiar collapse unfolded after Yashasvi Jaiswal's inexplicable run-out as India stared down the barrel at 164/5 against a menacing Australia on day two of the fourth Test

12 THE HILLS TIMES

Jaiswal, who was quite fluent during his 118-ball stay that yielded 82 runs, was way short of his crease after a mix-up with Virat Kohli (36) while attempting a quick single, handing Australia the breakthrough that could prove decisive.

India are still 310 runs behind Australia's first innings score of 474 and would need another 111 runs to avoid a follow-on that should never have been a consideration on a placid batting track.

It was 153 for 2 at one stage and in four overs, another three wickets fell with Gautam Gambhir's plan of sending a night watchman in Akash Deep turning out to be one of the many poor calls that the head coach has taken in this game.

In a space of barely five minutes, cricket showed its fickle nature as Jaiswal pushed towards mid-on and called for a quick single with an assured Kohli (36) at the other end. Kohli took a step and half before retreating.

Pat Cummins swooped the ball and threw at the striker's end with a frustrated Jaiswal seen telling his idol "my call".

This moment will be one for posterity as Kohli looked down and perhaps felt that he could have at least said a loud

Siraj's ordinary showing (0/122 in 23 overs) was the primary reason for batters not being under any pressure. Smith, who was unbeaten overnight on

68 off 111 balls, took another 56 deliveries in the second morning to complete a Test ton which placed him on even keel with the legendary Sunil Gavaskar (34). The century came with a push drive through the vacant cover region and celebrations were pretty muted with a just vigorous head nod for his teammates in the dug-out. Smith, who had a torrid run till the second Test of this series, played both days in contrasting styles. On Thursday, he was ready to be patient and waited for deliveries at the expense of looking ugly. On Friday, the same batter was walking down the track to force the bowlers to alter their length. He was ready to pull and hook, getting two sixes off Bumrah and Siraj respectively.

Despite a significant drop in temperature and some nip in the air, Indians failed to make use of the semi-new Kookaburra, with lines going all awry and length being short enough to be punished. Cummins was allowed to settle down and hit seven

The Indian ploy of playing two spinners backfired with Ravindra Jadeja (3/78 in 22 overs) and Washington Sundar (1/49 in 15 overs) never looking penetrative.

For a change, Siraj didn't try and sledge an in-form batter, something that he did in Adelaide with some disastrous results.

But that didn't soften the Australian supporters, who constantly booed him and Kohli as and when the ball went to

Kohli jeered at MCG; pitch invader tries to embrace him

MELBOURNE, Dec 27: Indian batting star Virat Kohli was booed and jeered while walking back to the dressing room after his dismissal in the Boxing Day Test against Australia here, prompting him to turn around for a brief stand-off with the fans on an eventful day for him.

Kohli's conduct has become a hot topic in the ongoing fourth Test where he shoulder-charged 19-yearold debutant Sam Konstas on the opening day. It resulted in a fine and a demerit point.

On Friday, Kohli batted well for his 36 before being caught behind off Scott Boland.

He was dismissed shortly after a mix-up with Yashasvi Jaiswal resulted in the opener running himself

As he entered the tunnel leading up to the dressing room, fans in that section of the MCG began booing him and also made some comments in a short clip that has since gone viral. Kohli strode back after hearing something that was not clearly audible in the 22-second video.

The 36-year-old didn't seem pleased as he looked at the stands on his left before being escorted back to his original destination by a security personnel. (PTI)

30th Assam Inter-District Master's Athletic Championship gets underway in Kokrajhar

HT Correspondent

KOKRAJHAR, Dec 27: The 30th Assam Inter-District Master's Athletic Championship, 2024, commenced at the SAI Stadium Complex, Kanthalguri Titaguri, here on Friday. The four-day event, scheduled to conclude on December 30, has drawn nearly 1200 participants from 32 districts of Assam competing in events such as race, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw, marathon, and jumping.

Assam cabinet minister Urkhao Gwra Brahma inaugurated the championship as the chief guest, with Kokrajhar East MLA and Organizing Committee president Lawrence Islary delivering the welcome

MELBOURNE, Dec 27: Cricket Australia CEO Nick Hockley on Friday said there is no place for physical contact on the cricket field, following the face-off between India superstar Virat Kohli and Australian debutant Sam Konstas.

The brief showdown took place after the 10th over of the Australian innings on the opening day of the fourth Test when the players were crossing over. Kohli and Konstas bumped shoulders while moving across the pitch in the face off that was initiated by the travelling star.

Following the incident, Kohli was charged with breaching Level 1 of the ICC Code of Conduct and accepted the sanctions proposed by match referee Andy Pycroft at the end of the day. He was also fined 20 percent of his match

Markram leads South Africa to 180-5 in 1st test against Pakistan

South Africa, which needs to win one of the two test matches against Pakistan to seal a place in the final of the World Test Championship at Lord's next year, trails the visitors by 31 on a pitch tailor-made for fast

Markram was batting on an attractive 81 off 123 balls before Pakistan hit back with two wickets in the latter half of the first session with captain Temba Bavuma (31) and David Bedingham (30) both edging behind the wickets.

Wicketkeeper-batter Kyle Verreynne was yet to score but Markram stood tall in the first session and helped South Africa score 98 runs before lunch for the loss of two wickets. Resuming on 82-3, Markram completed his half century with an exquisite cover driven boundary off Naseem Shah and stretched the fourth-wicket stand to 70 runs with Bavuma before Pakistan got its first breakthrough.

Aamer Jamal was rewarded for persistent length balls to Bavuma as the South African skipper finally got a thick outside edge while going for a loose drive.

Bedingham counterattacked from the onset, smashing five boundaries in his 33-ball knock and also survived when Pakistan unsuccessfully went for an lbw television review against Naseem Shah's full pitched delivery, which television replays suggested would have missed the leg stump.

However, Naseem didn't have to wait long as Bedingham was beaten by some extra bounce and nicked it in the first slip in the penultimate over before lunch. (AP)

The risk was not really necessary, says Gavaskar on Jaiswal's run out

Test here.

MELBOURNE, Dec 27: Indian batting great Sunil Gavaskar and former Australia opener Justin Langer on Friday said Virat Kohli and Yashasvi Jaiswal could have avoided attempting the "risky" single that led to the latter's run-out, giving Australia a potentially decisive breakthrough in the fourth

Jaiswal, who made a breezy 118-ball 82 on the second day of the game, was way short of his crease after a mix-up with Kohli (36) while attempting a quick single.

"It would have been a quick run, and somebody like Virat Kohli would definitely have made it. But the thing was, he looked at the fielder. When you look at the fielder, when you turn, you've lost that vital second. Your balance is combeen a tight run," Gavaskar told Star Sports.

"I think at that stage, why do you need to take a run that was not really necessary.

Gavaskar, however, added that Kohli could have completed the run if had fully committed himself to it "only because Kohli is such a fantastic runner" between the wickets.'

The horrible mix-up led to Jaiswal's run out and affected Kohli's concentration, who then fished at a delivery outside off-stump.

Langer said, "I thought it was a risky run because Pat and get as close as possible to Cummins is a brilliant athlete. Australia's total. Ravindra

"It's not just about saving the follow-on. India needs to spend a little more time at the crease tomorrow. Even if they can take it till post-lunch, they give themselves a very good Gavaskar also feels seasoned off-spinner Nathan Lyon will "come into play on the third day."

"He hasn't had much of a role to play in the entire series, but now, with what we saw from Washington Sundar and Ravindra Jadeja bowling, they were getting the ball to grip, turn, and maybe get a little more bounce as well.

"So Nathan Lyon will certainly enjoy bowling to the left-handers. There are three left-handers now, two at the crease, with Washington Sunother -- India needs another dar still to bat. He will probably be used a little more.

The legendary batter added, "Clearly, India needs to put their heads down. Like I said, they have to try and take their first innings past lunch, maybe as close to tea as possible, and therefore get as close as possible to the Australian total.

"Australia will not give you the follow-on, make no mistake. Even if India falls short of 274, Australia will not give you the follow-on. They'll want to bat you out of the game." (PTI)

Tendulkar, Sindhu among sporting stars to pay tributes to Manmohan Singh

Indian sports paid rich tributes to former Prime Minister Dr Manmohan Singh, who died on Thursday, describing him as a visionary, who had quiet strength and humility.

Singh died here after losing consciousness at his home due to age-related ailments. He was 92.

"Rest in peace, Dr. Manmohan Singhji. His quiet strength, wisdom, and humility were truly inspiring. I had a brief interaction with him in 2013 — he was kind, gracious, and left a lasting impression. My heartfelt condolences to his family," wrote India's ace shuttler Sindhu on 'X'.

Cricket great Sachin Tendulkar termed Singh's demise as a huge loss for the country.

Legendary golfer Jeev Milkha Singh recalled Singh's simplicity and humility, saying he was committed to national duty all his life.
